Changes coming to Sign Ordinance

Large venue off premise directional signs to be allowed & more

At a special called Planning Board meeting Monday night, members took a "walk-about" town to see how proposed changes to the Sign Ordinance might change the look of the business district.

The board has been going over the sign ordinance portion of the Unified Development Ordinance over the last few months tweaking and eliminating – and discussion will continue at the regular Planning Board meeting, Monday, Sept. 23.

Though the Town Board will have the final say, so far recommendations are as follows:

County agrees to start conversation about Nikwasi Indian Mound ownership

Last Tuesday, the Macon County Board of Commissioners unanimously passed a resolution in attempt to facilitate a conversation between the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians and the Town of Franklin regarding the Nikwasi Indian Mound. The mound legally belongs to the Town of Franklin.

The resolution, which states, "Whereas, Macon County has enjoyed and materially benefitted from its positive and continuing relationship with the Eastern Band of the Cherokee Nation and looks forward to continuing and increasing the same," is the result of Franklin regarding the Nikwasi Indians Principal Chief Michell Hicks visiting county commissioners in August to ask for help in "bringing the mound home."

Hicks went before commissioners in August pleading for the board's help in finding a way for the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians to obtain possession of the mound. As Hicks spoke to commissioners last month, he explained that the Nikwasi Mound is not the only property in Macon County which holds historical significance to the

Work to begin on Parker Meadows rec complex

Last Tuesday night, in a split 3-2 decision, county commissioners voted to allocate $21,000 from the county's fund balance to begin the process of developing the Parker Meadows property into a recreational facility. Commissioners Paul Higdon and Ron Haven voted against the motion.

While the county originally unanimously voted to purchase the 48-acre property for economic and recreational development, votes regarding the project that have occurred since commissioner Paul Higdon beat out former commissioner Bobby Kuppers last fall have been split 3-2.

Public was grossly misled

Dear Editor,

A rally at Bridge Park in Sylva on August 28th attracted 300 – 500 people; the difference in the count is between organizer claims, 500 and media estimates. No matter whether 300 or 500 people they all were grossly misled by the speakers who wrongly trashed the work of the Republican led state legislature.

No mention was made of the conditions Republicans inherited from years of Democrat control – a $2.5 billion budget deficit, billions of dollars in unfunded pension plans, $2.6 billion debt owed to US Treasury for money borrowed for unemployment, $400 billion in debt owed to US Treasury for improper Medicaid billing and underfunded transportation maintenance leaving our state in a $2 billion hole because the highway trust fund was raided for years to pay other bills.

No credit was given to the Republican legislature for passing a balanced budget that cuts excessive spending and reduces corporate and personal income taxes, eliminates excessive regulations thereby creating jobs and bringing industry to North Carolina.

Speakers decried education reform even though there has been no decreased funding for public schools. It seems that when education records in North Carolina show that the state spends $9,000 per student but 40% of third graders can't read at grade level and nearly one in four students do not graduate from high school it is time for a change in direction and that is what this legislature did.

The legislature increased appropriations funding for K-12 public schools. School districts are now able to renew teacher contracts based on performance -- imagine that -- just like any business does with employees. Scholarships, grants and vouchers to fund free and reduced lunch programs, special needs students and public school student's tuition and expenses for private school -- parental choice, a novel idea to some. $5.1 million dollars is there to attract, hire and train more teachers in high need districts.

While the protest crowd supposedly promoted equality, they evidently did not mean voter equality. The North Carolina Voter Information Verification Act essentially ensures all voters are treated the same when the votes are counted by requiring photo ID for everyone who wishes to vote. One speaker stated that everyone is equal at the ballot box and how true that is but not so true if some voters are not who they are supposed to be. If anyone thinks there is no voter fraud, then there should be no objection to requiring voter ID at the polls.

Rally protesters support women's rights yet they reject a basic right that creates safer standards for abortion facilities. Protesters support healthcare for all yet reject Medicaid reform made more patient oriented and fiscally responsible by Governor McCrory's office.

The rally chant "Forward together, not one step back" is appropriate for this state... we sure do not want to go any steps back to the mismanagement and fiscal irresponsibility of a Democrat majority legislature.

New Gateway signs are great

Dear Editor,

I noticed the new gateway signs and I think they are very attractive. Nothing against the old signs, but they were a little dated and out of character for the town. I'm new to Highlands, but immediately noticed the difference and want to commend those who made the decision and the tasteful design. Nice work!

About The Bascom

Dear Editor,

There are several interesting exhibits currently showing at The Bascom well worth spending time to enjoy.

The Members Show, an annual event to showcase the artists membership of The Bascom, and their creative way of dealing with a theme given them, (this year's theme is Whimsy) is hanging throughout the whole building.

A juried exhibition of works entitled "Figures" showcases works of artists working in various mediums from throughout the United States is on display in the Buntzl Gallery on the main floor, along with craft pieces in the Atrium.

The featured exhibit in the Loft Gallery is a site specific installation by Caroline Lathan-Stiefel in which I have more than a passing interest. But what I really want to say about it, is not just how great the creativity of the art work is, but also sing the praises of the Bascom staff that helped Caroline daily for over a week in the installation and lighting of the finished work.

Sallie Taylor and Bo Sweeny of the Curatorial Staff of the Bascom are absolutely without equal! The people of this community are so fortunate to have such a talented staff dedicated to not only bringing art to the Bascom, but presenting it in such a highly professional way. I was able to witness first hand how hard Sallie, Bo, and Caroline worked on every little detail and nuance of the installation, and as an artist and a part of the viewing public, I want to thank each one of them.

But I especially want to thank Bo Sweeny who will be leaving us soon for a new adventure in his life. Bo is a very gifted artist and will find new inspiration in new places and I wish him well, though with a touch of sadness because we will all miss him and his great artistic eye.

Bon Voyage, Bo, and again thanks to Sallie and Caroline.

Abuela with two of her 11 great-grandchildren, Harper and Jackson Fairchild

She was “Abuela” to literally thousands – from her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren’s many friends, to the countless young students who passed through St. Michael’s school cafeteria where she served for almost three generations, and Little Havana’s Social Security office, where she enjoyed working well into her 70s and was known by all for her warm heart and genuine desire to help.

Abuela’s passions were family and travel, and she will be especially missed by those she touched in Spain, North Carolina, New Orleans, Cuba, Isla Mujeres and Tobago, where she visited as recently as last year.

Born in Matanzas, Cuba, April 12, 1914, she came to the United States with her two small children in 1956, shortly after being widowed by the love of her life, Fidencio. She was fiercely proud of her Cuban heritage and equally proud of her many years as an American citizen.

Abuela died September 10, 2013.

Predeceased by her beloved husband Fide and son, Jorge, she is survived by her daughter Marta Figel (Alan); granddaughters Martha Limner (Nick), Marlene Fairchild (John), and Janean Barroso (Brian); grandsons Jorge Zapata (Jennifer), Andrew Figel (Suzanne) and Nick Figel; and 11 great-grandchildren – Nicholas, Andrew, Jordan, Remy, Sydney, Kai, Dawson, Isabella, Levi, Harper & Jackson – who she enjoyed well into her 99th year.

A service was held in her honor on Saturday, September 14 at 6:30 pm at Stanfill Funeral Home, 10545 South Dixie Highway, Fla. In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made to your favorite charity.

Zoning Board UPDATE

At the Wednesday, Sept. 11 Zoning Board meeting, a Special Use Permit for the Satulah Mountain Brewing Company was issued with a unanimous vote.

Dale Heinlein of the Satulah Mountain Brewing Company will now open a brew pub on 454 Carolina Way this fall.

According to the SUP application, Satulah Mountain Brewing Company will offer locally sourced and hand-crafted brews and will produce under 500 barrels a year for both wholesale distribution to local establishments and for retail sale on site.

Initial operating hours will be 2-9 p.m. daily.

The craft beer will be on tap and local wine and snacks might also be available.

The brewpub is permitted in the B-3 zoning district and one parking space for each 250 sq. ft. of gross floor space is required. There will be three parking spaces in front and three in back of the building.

Three citizens spoke during the hearing – two who spoke in favor of the business and one business owner on Carolina Way who didn’t speak against the business but expressed concerns about Carolina Way turning into a “street full of bars.”

The other bar on the street is The Lost Hiker.

the exterior of buildings.

No changes to signage displays on the inside of buildings.

No changes to temporary signs can be affixed to the interior which can't exceed 20% of the window space.

One "Open" sign -- which falls under the Temporary Regulated Signs without a permit category -- is allowed per public entrance of a business. Some businesses have two or more public entrances -- not to be confused with a delivery entrance. These signs can be flags, wall signs or "open" signs attached to permitted free-standing signs (currently only allowed in the B3 district.) Monday night, the board discussed how to handle sandwich boards with the word "closed" on them. This will be discussed further.

None of the "open" signs can intrude into the right-of-way and they must be removed at closing time. Rear entrances that are used for deliveries but not the public in the B1 district can have the name of the business on a sign on the building not to exceed 2 sq. ft. of surface area per sign face.

Animated and moving signs are still prohibited except for "open" flags as referred to above.

In the electric sign category, message board signs are still prohibited except for church signs, service station signs, and restaurant message boards which are allowed without a permit. However, if restaurant message signs are electric, the display must be four changes per minute and can't exceed 2 foot candles at 12 inches from the screen.

Internally illuminated signs are still prohibited except for restaurant message boards and real estate listings within a commercial window.

There was much talk about the use of computer monitors or flat screen TV monitors to display real estate listing. The same rate of exchange as electronic messaging boards is required -- four changes per minute and 2 foot candles at 12 inches from the screen. Monitors six feet or less from the window can't exceed 32 inches in size (measured diagonally); monitors beyond 6 feet from the window can't exceed 42 inches in size.

This issue in particular will be discussed more next Monday.

Some issues to be considered at the Sept. 19 Town Board... 7 p.m. at the Community Building next to the Ballpark

Among other items, the Thursday, Sept. 19 Town Board meeting will consider bids for the new pool, bids for Civic Center upgrades and whether to hire a full-time Main Street Coordinator.

So far all three bids that have come in to build the new pool have put the project over budget: Augusta Aquatics, $713,850; Paddock Construction, $744,860; and Conner Construction, $689,700

The budget for the new pool is $450,000 with the county footing half of the bill.

"At this time we are approximately $360,000 over budget," said Town Manager Bob Frye. "We are currently reviewing the bids and assessing our options and will report in more detail at the board meeting.

Meanwhile the FY 2013-'14 budget includes funds for upgrades to the Civic Center: the HVAC system; the replacement of all exterior doors; and the upgrade of the main entryway with electric sliding doors.

The amount budgeted for all three projects is $199,975. The lowest bids for all three jobs have put the upgrades over budget at a total of $206,485.

Staff is recommending that Northeast Georgia Heating and Air be awarded the $127,393 bid for the HVAC upgrade; Highlands Construction be awarded the exterior door upgrade $26,392 bid; and Franklin Glass Service be awarded the $52,700 bid for the electric door upgrade.

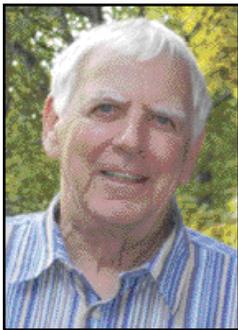

To make up the deficit, staff is suggesting $6,814 be shifted from the fuel oil line item in the Parks and Recreations budget to cover the project particularly because the new heating system will be electric rather than fuel oil.

Thursday night the board will consider allocating $64,129.37 in an employment package (including insurance, workmen's comp and a 2.5% raise after six months) for a Main Street Coordinator Position.

Mayor Wilkes asked that this item be placed on the agenda for consideration. There has been talk among the Main Street fisheries all over the world. You would be a great asset to my company and you would soon become rich.”

That evening Billy-Bob told his wife about the man he had met. After hearing the man's offer, she showed Billy several unpaid doctor's bills and a dental estimate for their kid's braces. "With a better job, we could pay off these bills and have a better life," she said.

The next morning Billy-Bob called the man and took the job. Moving his family to Atlanta, he rose up in the company and after 20 years of hard work, he was the chief CEO of the fisheries.

At his retirement dinner, a junior executive called out to Billy-Bob and asked what he would do in retirement now that he was a millionaire.

Billy-Bob rose from his chair, pulled the microphone to his mouth, cleared his throat and said, "I'm going to a place called Highlands where I can catch trout from a secret place, throwing back the small ones which I'll catch later. In the afternoon I'll play my banjo with friends, eat my trout, and make love to my wife before going to sleep early."

A Highlands mountain man named Billy-Bob was returning home carrying a sizable string of mountain trout when he happened upon a wealthy Atlanta man hiking in the forest. The two stopped to chat.

"That's a handsome string of trout you have there, young man. Where did you catch them?" the man asked.

"I can't tell you that, sir, but I would be willing to give you one trout so you can see how tasty they are," Billy-Bob responded.

"Well, that's mighty generous of you. I consider myself a good judge of character and because you didn't reveal your fishing spot but offered one of your fish to a total stranger, I would like to offer you a job."

Billy-Bob responded, "Thank you, sir, but I'm pretty happy in what I do. I fish in the morning, throwing back the small ones to be caught later. Then in the afternoon, I play my banjo with my friends, eat my trout, and make love to my wife before going to sleep early."

The wealthy man held out his business card. "Take my card. I'm the CEO of a national fishery conglomerate. We own

There is talk about giving real estate businesses a choice of covering their windows with paper listings or using a monitor/flat screen to display listings. Real estate offices are exempt from the 20% rule when it comes to affixing "signage" on the inside of windows.

String and tube lighting isn't allowed except for restaurants to illuminate an outside dining area. However, such lighting is allowed throughout the business districts Nov. 15 to Jan. 15.

Outdoor display of merchandise is only allowed on private property; and currently no clothing or other wearing apparel is allowed nor is merchandise with wind movable parts – however, the board is recommending doing away with those stipulations.

Political signs, which are considered temporary regulated signs allowed without a permit, can only be displayed on private property, not in the public right-of-way and must be removed seven days after the election.

Off premise signs for large venues on non-residential venues, which are considered to be permanent regulated signs requiring a permit, are allowed with the following stipulations:

Only properties used for holding venues within the town limits which create large numbers of vehicular traffic are allowed one sign at the entrance of the roadway. The signs must be approved on a case-by-case basis by the Town Board and must match the colors and design of the new wayfaring program.

Once the Planning Board completes amendments to the Sign Ordinance, Interim Planning Director Josh Ward will present the revisions to the Town Board for consideration.

Cherokee Nation, but if an agreement between Franklin and the Tribe is able to be worked out, Hicks hopes it will open doors for future cooperative preservation projects. "Macon County used to be Cherokee lands so you all have a lot of our history here," said Hicks. "We would like to work to start some sort of historical fund or foundation to raise money, not just for the mound, but for other properties in Macon County of mutual interest."

The Eastern Band has been working to ensure the preservation and protection of the mound since 2012 when a pesticide was sprayed on the mound that resulted in patches of dead grass. Despite the bumpy past regarding the mound, Hicks said he wanted to move forward in pursuing avenues that would be mutually advantageous for all parties involved. "Regardless what has happened in the past and the history of the mound, that is all water under the bridge now," said Hicks. "I just want to bring the mound home."

Hicks told commissioners that the Tribe is not just seeking sole possession of the mound, but would be interested in working out a memorandum of agreement or some other understanding with the Town of Franklin to ensure the mound is well taken care of.

To date, the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians have not contacted the Town of Franklin regarding reaching an agreement. Commissioners continually reiterated last week that they are not taking a stance on who should have ownership of the mound one way or the other, but their sole reason in being involved is to ensure that an opportunity exists for the Tribe and town officials to open a conversation about the property.

The resolution states such purpose in the closing paragraph, "Resolved, that Macon County, by and through its County Manager will attempt to schedule a joint meeting of representatives of the County, the Town of Franklin and the Eastern Band of the Cherokee Nation to commence some dialogue regarding this important matter," concludes the resolution.

Town of Franklin Alderman Bob Scott released a statement regarding the possibility of a conversation with the tribe, "I do not want to see the mound deeded to the tribe," said Scott. "I am, however, open to exploring ways that would benefit the town, the tribe and the protection of the mound. I think there is room for all parties to come to the table including the public and develop a plan that would provide for the preservation and maintenance of the mound. I think this is only right to do so. One possibility would be for the town and the tribe to enter into a trust agreement that would protect the mound from now on for everyone's benefit."

Sitting in the center of Franklin, the Nikwasi Indian Mound is an archaeological site that dates back to 1000 CE to the history of the Mississippian culture people, with dates as far back as 1730 citing a council being held at the town of the Nikwasi.

The Nikwasi Indian Mound was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1980 and has been preserved to be near to its original height but only half of its original size in area.

during the due diligence portion," said Haven, saying the cost for the project is more than he originally thought. "I am all for it. I am all for us having ballfields, but I think we should look around and see what other people charge for these services."

The service Haven referred to is $17,000 to cover the cost of contracting with Engineer Mike LoVoy to complete a topographical map and additional engineering services. "We need the topographical information to be able to do detailed design, and to determine our cut and fill numbers for the earth works that will be done with the grading, so we can properly bid the project out to contractors," explained LoVoy last Tuesday.

LoVoy has been the engineer on the Parker Meadows project since the beginning. County Manager Jack Horton encouraged commissioners to continue working with LoVoy because of his expertise and knowledge of the project. "In my opinion, Mike has been dedicated and reliable so far and he probably knows more about the property than anyone else," said Horton. "I do not think we can find a better deal than what he is offering us."

Of the $17,000, $6,000 is earmarked for the grading and erosion control design and permitting, $3,000 is allocated for the storm drainage design, $3,000 identified for LoVoy's service in aiding the county in the process for bidding and awarding contracts for big packages for the grading, erosion control and storm drainage projects, and $5,000 for the construction observation and administration of the project once the bids are awarded to contractors.

An additional $4,000 will be designated to Lamar Sprinkle to survey the property, bringing the total investment from the county to $21,000.

Commissioners explained that while the $21,000 will be taken from the county's fund balance, the full amount will be repaid contingent upon the county's approval for the Parks and Recreation Trust Fund (PARTF) Grant from the state. According to Commission Chair Kevin Corbin, Macon County has been identified as first in line to receive a $500,000 from the state for recreational opportunities.

Advisory Group and the Planning Liaison Group about the town hiring a full-time Main Street Program Coordinator to oversee the town's activities on Main Street.

Frye said the town can use funds in the Planning and Development FY 2013-'14 budget that were supposed to cover two positions in the Planning Department.

"As we are not looking to fill the currently vacant position, these funds could be allocated to this position," said Frye.

If the board wants to move ahead, Frye said the position should be listed as Grade 18, Level 1 with a starting salary of $41,017.60 ($64,129.37 for the complete package) which is available in the Planning and Development Dept. budget.

The Town Board meeting is Thursday, Sept. 19 at 7 p.m. in the Community Building by the ballpark.

a PARTF grant that has been identified as the number one project in the state, has always received the funding. "We are pretty hopeful that we are going to receive the full $500,000," said Commissioner Ronnie Beale. "I think the sooner we can get this work done, the better off we will be when we are approved for the PARTF grant. This work will let us get started right away."

Due to the uncertainty in receiving the PARTF monies, Commissioner Paul Higdon voted against the project. "It is nothing against Mike personally,

I think he does great work, but I am opposed to spending money, especially before the PARTF grant is approved," said Higdon.

Higdon also informed the board, that he would like to see the bidding process for the work be offered to local contractors.

On a motion made Commissioner Beale and seconded by Jimmy Tate, the board approved moving forward in a 3-2 vote. Commissioners Haven and Higdon voted no.

A native of Covington, GA, Andy is a storyteller, humorist, singer, songwriter, musician, whistler, walking menagerie of sound effects and dialects, and so much more; some of his talents are hard to categorize.

In storytelling circles, he is especially known for relating the adventures of his eighty-five-year-old-widowed-newly-minted-physician-aunt, Dr. Marguerite Van Camp, a woman who avoids curmudgeonship by keeping her finger on the pulse of... well herself, but also the changing world around her. She steps lively through it, loving as many people as she can.

As a result, many people love Andy. Irwin was awarded the 2013 National Storytelling Network Circle of Excellence Award, and all five of his storytelling CDs have won Storytelling Word Awards. He has appeared five times at the National Storytelling Festival, and July of 2103 will mark his seventh year as a Teller in Residence at International Storytelling Center; he has been a Guest Artist at La Guardia High School of Art, Music, and Performing Arts in New York (The "FAME!" School); and he has been a Keynote Speaker/Performer at the Library of Congress-Virburnum Foundation Conference on Family Literacy.

Andy also does occasional theatrical projects for Oxford College of Emory University where he was Artist in Residence, 1991-2007. (He is now an Artist-in-Just-Passing-Through).

Early in his career, Andy performed with the comedic troupe, SAK Theatre at Walt Disney World, 1984-1989. These days, he tours with Cathy Fink, Suzi Whaples and Brent Holmes as the "Southern Comedy Tour." Also with the Kandinsky Trio, Bill Lepp and Kim Weitkamp as the "Uncalled for Tour." And, of course, he tours alone with his one-man show extravaganza.

He does many different educational programs and camps for children, too, where he focuses on literacy, storytelling, music, and taking care of the environment ... among other things.

Andy proudly holds a BA in Sociology from Georgia College &/or State University. They handed it to him in 1983.

10 Live Transmissions, Including 4 New Productions

The Metropolitan Opera's award-winning series offers a significant portion of the Met season to opera lovers around the world. "We have chosen a wide sampling of the best of our new season for the opera lovers around the world to enjoy locally," said Met General Manager Peter Gelb. "Our commitment to making opera accessible and affordable continues."

The Met: Live in HD is now shown in more than 1,900 theaters in 64 countries, making the Met the only arts institution with an ongoing global art series of this scale. The Met began on a modest scale in 2006. Since then, its program has grown every sea-

Upgrading Your Roof Can Save You Money Down the Line

(StatePoint) While some home repairs can be done without much forethought, other upgrades deserve more attention -- such as replacing your roof. Your roof not only makes a big visual impact, but because it is constantly exposed to the elements it's essential that it's built to last.

Extreme weather events have increased in frequency and severity in the past decade, and a home's roof is one of the first places water and wind attack. A bit of research can help ensure you're investing in a roof that will serve you well.

"Quality is crucial to lasting curb appeal and structural integrity," says Mark Clement, a professional contractor and host of the MyFixitUpLife home improvement radio show. "Spend time reviewing your options."

How do you know it's time for a new roof? Using a ladder, or observing your roof with binoculars from across the street, look for problem areas, such as missing or broken shingles, or tiles that are "flapping" in the wind. These are indications it's time for a new roof.

When replacing your roof, here are some things to consider:

- Durability: You may be cost-conscious, but repairs, inspection and maintenance can be costly. In the long run, skipping over the bargain-basement priced roofs and opting for a virtually maintenance-free roof can save you time and money.

"For my own home, I wanted to feel confident my roof would withstand extreme weather, so I went with the DaVinci Roofscapes Multi-Width Slate tiles, which are impact-resistant and fire-resistant and backed by a 50-year limited warranty," says Clement.

- Style: More than seven in ten homeowners believe the outward appearance of their home reflects their personality, according to the 2011 Homeowners Exterior Preferences Study conducted by Harris Interactive. Look for a roof that speaks highly of you.

Natural slate and shake roofing materials evoke images of traditional charm and long-standing durability. However they have an inherent tendency to flake, chip, or splinter over time. New polymer alternatives, such as the BellaForté line of slate and shake polymer roofing tiles, have the appearance and beauty of natural slate or shake shingle roofing materials, but are highly-engineered to last longer.

Use multiple profiles to create a staggered appearance that simulates a natural rough-hewn wood shake roof.

- Environment: To go eco-friendly, opt for a roof made of recyclable materials and which has the approval of the Cool Roof Rating Council. Cool roofs can save energy, improve homeowner comfort and help reduce urban heat island effect and smog.

- Color: Enhancing a home's exterior with a burst of color is currently a hot trend. Homeowners and contractors now can consult with online tools to find colors that match the rest of their homes' exteriors. For example, the DaVinci Color Studio has a free online tool that allows you to create your own custom color blend of roofing using any of 49 standard colors. Visit www.DaVinciRoofscapes.com/color-studio.php to get started

A roof is a long-term investment, particularly if you choose wisely. Do a careful review of your options before writing a check.

Fall Home Improvement

Smart Home Improvements Can Save You Money

(StatePoint) During fall, many homeowners focus on small upgrades and improvements. The turning season is the perfect time to find and correct potential compromises in your home before they become larger, and more costly, renovation issues.

“Whether it is routine home exterior checks or appliances purchases, there are many ways homeowners can conduct basic, inexpensive home maintenance,” said Harold “Bud” Dietrich, member of the American Institute of Architects Custom Residential Architecture Network.

DIY Home Inspection

Many people don't know that they should perform twice-a-year home inspections. The prime time for these inspections is in the spring and fall. Take the time to give your house a thorough review.

Start by walking the perimeter of your property to see if there is any rotting wood, mold, loose gutters or shingles. Then check for any cracks that have settled or work that could be done to siding, roofing or windows.

Inspect the bathroom and kitchen for loose or missing tiles and leaks in sinks and faucets. Ensure that appliances are working at maximum capacity.

Although these may not seem like major issues, it is much easier to tackle them during milder seasons so potential problems aren't made worse by extreme weather.

Exterior Updates

Many people underestimate the seriousness of dirt and mulch covering the siding of a home. Most building codes actually require at least six inches of the foundation to be exposed.

Beyond breaking these codes, dirt and mulch build-up pulls moisture from the ground and causes it to develop in the walls. Eventually mold will start to grow, which can lead to a variety of indoor air quality and structural problems. Raking around the foundation of your home regularly can help combat this problem.

Another area to consider for easy updates is exterior paint. Peeling paint isn't only unattractive; it also exposes the siding of your home to the elements. Regular maintenance of areas that need re-painting can save major headaches down the line.

Updating Appliances

Buying new appliances can be an investment, and, as such, paying a higher price upfront can actually save you money in the long run. The right appliances can last for 20 years or more, while more inexpensive models often break down after a few years. Newer models are also often more energy efficient. If cost or budget is an issue, store display models are often offered at extremely discounted prices.

Also make an investment in flooring and countertops. Buying laminate countertops will initially be cheaper than granite countertops, but in ten years the granite countertops will still look brand new, while the laminate will be worn out and need to be replaced.

An architect can help homeowners apply many of these cost-saving home improvements in smart and strategic ways. To find one in your area, visit: <http://architectfinder.aia.org>.

Don't wait. Fall is the ideal time to make small improvements that will save you money and time later on.

QTR: Quality Time Remaining

A friend and client recently introduced me to the acronym: QTR which stands for "Quality Time Remaining." He said that he and his wife are very conscious of how they intend to spend their QTR. With the tsunami of baby boomers retiring every single day, where we live and spend our QTR affects so many aspects of our lives: the friends we have, the activities that we enjoy, the joys or hassles of everyday living and even our health. As many of us have chosen the Highlands/Cashiers Plateau to spend our QTR, what factors guided us here? Here are the reasons that my husband, Wood, and I chose to leave Atlanta and move to Highlands thirteen years ago:

Jody Lovell
exurbiasothebysrealty.

1. Weather. The cool summers and moderate winters allow us to enjoy the outdoors twelve months a year;
2. Natural Beauty. The lush landscape and dramatic views continue to marvel us on a daily basis;
3. Social Network. The diverse and interesting backgrounds of the people attracted to this tiny area are truly amazing;
4. Cultural Amenities. For an area so sparsely populated on a year-round basis, the lively and vibrant opportunities for cultural enjoyment are overwhelming;
5. Family and Friends. Moving from Atlanta, the quick two-hour commute allows us to stay connected with our children, grandchildren and old friends while providing the opportunity to meet new friends from all over the world;
6. Medical facilities. The Highlands Cashiers Hospital is such a huge asset to this community. Having had an emergency operation in 2007, I can personally attest to the high quality of health care which only improves every year;
7. Safety and crime. When the most common incident in the police reports is "barking dog reported," you know that you are living on the safest spot on the planet;
8. Air and water quality. Water is the new "gold" with many parts of the country and the world currently in drought conditions. The pristine mountain water that fills our wells should never be taken for granted. The EPA evaluates areas by the Air Quality Index (AQI). This index is on a scale of 0 to 500 with 0 being the very best. This area is rated 39 which is in the very top range of good air quality;

9. Traffic. Driving behind a slow driver in the season may be annoying, but getting "stuck" in traffic and wasting hours of your life is an anomaly on the Plateau;

10. Art and Angela Williams. It may seem out of place to put people as the reason to move to a town, but the huge investment that Art and Angela Williams have committed to Highlands supports the economy and vibrancy of this bucolic paradise. The five-star restaurants, the fabulous independent shops and the art scene would not be sustainable without the marketing of Highlands that is promoted by The Old Edwards Inn. It is what YOU make of a location that makes IT work for you. May we all grow old together while enjoying our QTR in one of the most special places on earth.

• Jody and Wood Lovell own Exurbia Sotheby's International Realty, local leaders in the real estate market for thirteen years, with two locations: one in The Old Edwards Inn complex in downtown Highlands and one at the gate of Cullasaja Club of Highlands. Jody was again the Number One Agent on the entire Highlands-Cashiers MLS in 2012 and continues to be in 2013 in the sale of homes. Call them at (828) 526-4104 for all of your real estate needs.

FALLING WATERS

Lot prices start at $129,000. Owner financing available.

A 52-acre community just 2.5 miles from Main Street. Secluded but not remote; peaceful, quiet and private. Mature hardwoods, giant rhodies, mountain laurel and a plethora of wild flowers. Two waterfalls and several creeks add charm and interest.

It is our goal that Falling Waters be aesthetically pleasing and well maintained, while preserving the backdrop of its natural beauty. Falling Waters is governed by the NC Planned Community Act, and excellent framework for basic structure governing practices and declarations. We have added our own well thought out covenants to protect the environment and help insure that the Falling Waters community is a sanctuary where peace, safety and happiness abound.

Perhaps most important is our desire to create and live in a caring community with a culture of good will, harmony and consideration. We believe the best rule is "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Welcome...Come Visit!

God, The 10 Suggestions & the U. S. of A.

Father Jim Murphy
Christ Anglican Church
Cashiers

I'm regularly amazed by the reactions of some folks when I write about Christian faith and the simple, elegant Truth thereof. I'm amazed because of something that is easily discerned in the rather vituperative reactions, namely: an inability or an unwillingness to think or to honestly engage the issue at hand.

During a roundtable discussion of recent vintage, among a bevy of highly educated men and women of faith, the subject turned to "teaching young people to think." It was generally agreed that the average student in 21st century America will graduate from both high school and college, if they pursue their education that far, without a well-informed, well-tuned ability to think critically or with an unwillingness or laziness to investigate just about any topic or assertion before drawing a conclusion. Students and society at-large are more often than not told what to think by the pundits or media or intelligentsia of the day. We tend to resist true "thinking" as a nation.

Evidence bears this out. How else could we, as a nation, generally speaking, eschew the age-old wisdom of God, such as has been consistently proven to be beneficial for individuals, communities, and societies over the course of better than 4,000 years? Throughout recorded human history, God's grace, principally because of his authorship of creation, has been enjoyed most often by those who have critically thought about what is best in any given situation, and decided that obedience to the Father's will is the best course of action. As the 1960's TV series put it, "Father Knows Best."

As a nation, we continually push God and faith to the margins, installing the religion of "self" as the reigning theology. If we were to honestly think about the last national election and critically review platforms, platitudes and results, we would have to draw the conclusion that we, at least more than 50% percent of us, voted against our own self-interest and that of our society.

Viewing American society through the prism of the Ten Commandments brings this into specific relief. Commandment #1 (regard no other gods above Him), we consciously promote so many gods as to make our heads spin. The regnant theory of "relativity of truth" has issued forth in a pantheon of demi-gods. Commandment #2 (have no images or likenesses of gods to worship), we honor and deify politicians and celebrities with regularity. We worship by spending 100's of billions upon ourselves and sporting events while much of the world goes to bed hungry. Commandment #3 (don't take the name of the Lord in vain), with impunity we slander the name, reputation and truth of God. Do you remember the Crucifix in a jar of urine,

Peter Kipp-duPont and his falcons captivated garden club members August 5

Kipp-duPont has been training birds of prey for more than 40 years and received his master class falconry license in 1981. You only have to hear his presentation to realize his passion. He helped re-establish peregrine falcons on Whiteside Mountain in the 1980s. Mountain Garden Club and Laurel Garden Club, which are dedicated to aiding the protection and conservation of natural resources, were fortunate to hear Kipp-duPont's Birds of Prey presentation during a joint meeting at Community Bible Church. Kipp-duPont is an environmental educator and works with The QUEST FOUNDATION (www.questfoundation.org). Kipp-DuPont is also Director of the WNC Environmental Appreciation and Awareness Project, which promotes environmental education, preservation and conservation. ## Rotary Club hears 'fair tax' proposal

Amidst a spirited Q and A session, Noon Rotary heard a presentation on the Fair Tax by Billy Bruce of Houston, Texas. The Fair Tax is a plan to simplify the federal tax code by eliminating all income and wealth-based taxes and replace them with a flat tax based only on spending. Seen as revenue-neutral, the chief value as claimed by its proponents would be to end the complexity of the current tax rules.

underwritten by you, the American taxpayer? Where is the thinking behind that?

Need I go on? #4 (keep holy the Sabbath) lost its panache a long time ago. #5 (honor mom and dad), the responsibilities and prerogatives of parents are consistently usurped by the state. #6 (no murder), we kill the most vulnerable among us and call it choice. #7 (no adultery), we legislate sexual immorality in service to the god of self and to the detriment of all (when you critically think about it!). #8 (don't steal), we have unwittingly become modern day Robin Hoods as we steal from the haves and give to the have nots, thereby stealing the dignity of the least among us and leading them into bondage in countless instances. #9 (no lying or deceptive practices), we enshrine the practice of deception and venerate someone who once famously lied, "I did not have sex with that woman." #10 (no coveting), we build much of our lives upon our wants and our desires with little or not concern (thinking) about what is really in the best interest of all.

If we will take the time to honestly think about the rudiments, the genesis of each of our societal quagmires, you can soon come to understand that not teaching our young people to think (and not thinking much ourselves), that not equipping them with the critical tools to make well-informed decisions, has led to the overall deterioration of our great country. If we continue our unthinking ways, relegating the Wisdom of God to the dustbin of history, then we'll have only ourselves to blame for the lack of the enjoyment of God's grace.
