Board of Ed gets final word on budget from state

Restores some teacher assistant positions, allocates textbook funds and more

Although school districts across the state had to wait a little longer for their 2015-'16 funding allocations, the wait proved beneficial, at least for Macon County.

At Monday night's Board of Education meeting, Macon County Schools finance director Angie Cook told members of the county board of education that the school system would experience a $540,497 increase in funding levels over last year.

In 2014, North Carolina allocated $24,608,382 to Macon

County for an ADM (Average Daily Membership) of 4,354. This year, Macon County Schools received funding for an ADM of

Foliage forecast: one of best leaf seasons in recent years

Fall leaf color in the mountains of Western North Carolina should be the best it has been in a number of years because of generally drier-than-normal conditions during 2015.

That's the word from Western Carolina University's autumnal season sage Kathy Mathews in her annual prediction of how foliage around the region will perform as the sunlight of summer wanes and days become frosty.

Mathews, an associate professor of biology at WCU, specializes

Study predicts increased fall tourism for Smoky Mtn. gateway counties

Although many of us still may be shaking the sand out of our bathing suits from summer's final trip to the beach over Labor Day weekend, a few students and faculty members at Western Carolina University have turned their attention to autumn and the mountains.

Students in a senior-level "Tourism Strategies" class taught by Steve Morse, economist and director of the Hospitality and Tourism Program in WCU's College of Business, are predicting a noticeable increase in hotel occupancy rates in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park gateway counties of Western North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee.

The students analyzed October hotel room demand trends

Chalker named Macon County 'Teacher of the Year'

At Monday night's Board of Education (BOE) meeting at Highlands School, HS Teacher of the Year and Great Beginnings teacher Andrea Chalker was selected Macon County's Teacher of the Year. Each of Macon County's schools' Teacher of the Year (who is selected by their peers) was in the running. The county's Teacher of the Year is then selected by the BOE and goes on to represent Macon County in the North Carolina Teacher of the Year competition.

Board member Tommy Cabe said though all Macon County teachers shine, Chalker stood above the rest.

Board member Stephanie McCall said Chalker is everywhere – in the classroom, the booster club, the community – everywhere. "She shows a unique passion for her school and her community."

Chalker, who taught in Franklin prior to coming to Highlands School said, "I am only as good as the people I am surrounded by. I am proud to be in Highlands School and to represent Macon County."

Does Duke care what we think?

You have heard the phrase, "The mouse that roared." When it comes to dealing with the Duke coal ash issue, Highlands may be, "The flea that roared." It gets down to the economy of scales.

Highlands accounts for about a half of a percent (1/2%) of the total usage for Duke Energy in Western Carolina. Apply that figure to the entire state and we may not even account for a quarter of a percent (1/4%). So, in their eyes Highlands might be viewed as just a blip on their huge radar screen.

Yes, we will continue to openly and constructively engage Duke over the coal ash surcharge issue. But, keep in mind, our resources pooled with that of others, could not match Duke's in a protracted legal confrontation. There is a strong possibility that FERC will grant them some kind of rate increase for coal ash clean up. The ultimate issue could be how much.

A similar item is the chemical spraying right-of-ways. Last week I saw workers with backpacks of chemicals spraying vegetation growing in the Duke transmission line right-of-way north of Highlands. Those transmission lines supply Highlands. Some folks want

Mayor Pat Taylor

Duke to stop that practice.

By comparison, Highlands electricity department does not use chemicals, but rather does limited trimming around our power lines.

At the risk of being labeled an apologist for Duke, there is a big difference in the economy of scale. Highlands has a relatively small service area so we employ a crew of five that constantly trims around power lines. Duke, on the other hand, has thousands of miles of transmission lines. For them not to use chemical spraying and rely on trim crews would be very expensive and in some cases be very dangerous for their workers in negotiating extreme mountain terrain. I have been told before to get Duke to stop using chemicals in their right-of-ways. My effort would be no more than a flea bite in Duke's broader commitment of delivering energy to their customers. Neither can I tell the U.S. Forest Service, N.C. DOT or the N.C. Highway Patrol how to operate on their rights-of-ways.

I can see it now, customers outraged with a rate increase. By Duke abandoning spraying, an army of tree trimmers had to be hired. Duke would point back to that mayor of Highlands for causing a rate increase for millions.

As winter approaches, both Duke and Highlands want to make sure power lines are free and clear. One tree limb covered with ice or snow can shut down an entire electrical system.

Getting back to coal ash clean up, I wish the state had not passed a sweeping law mandating Duke to clean up all their coal ash sites. Rather, I would prefer legislation where assessments by independent experts identified those sites posing environmental problems requiring coal ash removal. Maybe cost to consumers could have been reduced or even avoided.

P.S. I just had a discussion with DOT administrators about road maintenance in the Highlands area.

Thanks for letting Fred write

Dear Editor,

Please allow me to be but one of the many that will thank you for allowing Fred to expound politically in his column in the Sept. 24 edition entitled "Black Lives Definitely Don't Matter." His article was most profound. From one that was involved in the judiciary for 20+ years, that rode Saturday evening with police officers and viewed violence from the bench, being confronted with reality may be the prescription that is required for those that continue to support and look the other way as the moral fiber of this nation is eroded from within. The truth may hurt "some" to read and hear... what really hurts is for the facts to be ignored.

Disappointed ....

Dear Editor,

I am as thankful as anyone that we live in a nation that provides for the freedom of the press. Nevertheless, I am really surprised and disappointed you would publish such racist ranting as today's column by The Fredster in the Sept. 24th edition.

What does evil have to fear from you?

Dear Editor,

The purpose of this letter to address the Church Universal. Those that claim the name of Jesus, no matter the doctrinal distinctions. My burning question is, what does evil have to fear from you?

History is rife with examples of the Church encountering evil, and how those events have revealed the true character of those assembled in the name of Christ.

One such event occurred in the last century. While many sat in their cushioned pews, the disabled, homosexuals, and millions of Jews, etc., were being marched into the gas chambers. As they breathed the noxious fumes that spelled their doom, too many churches comforted themselves with their pretentious piety. One can almost imagine phrases like, "Such things just aren't spoken of in a polite society," or, "We wouldn't want to risk offending anyone, or make anyone uncomfortable," reverberating off the walls of their sanctuaries.

There were, however, those that weren't afraid to call out evil for what it was, and many paid with their lives to do so. One such person was Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a man who was moved to action because he had a firm belief that his loyalty was to God, not to another man, or institution. One of the more tragic facets of his story is that he had to work around, and oftentimes against, those that bore the name Christian. Sadly, many of us today face the same battle. Bonhoeffer made a profound statement that should be seared on the heart of all Christians, "Not to speak is to speak, not to act is to act." His courageous story serves as an inspiration to this day for those Christians that are engaging the culture.

So, where am I headed with this? Well, it isn't a revelation to discover that the tenets of Christianity are pro-life. Since its beginning, the Church has championed the protection of life from conception to natural death. Whether they were rescuing babies in ancient Rome that were left to die, or selflessly tending to those dying of various diseases, Christians have led the way on human rights. I am hoping to inspire the Church to do so again.

We find in scripture where Jesus is laying the foundation for the Church, and he says that the "gates of hell shall not prevail against it" (Matthew 16:18) The wording here implies that the gates of hell are stationary, and the Church is what should be mobile. It seems that we are seeing just the opposite!

The Planned Parenthood videos have exposed an evil industry. What has been on

Jean Ellen McNaught Mitchell

Jean Ellen McNaught Mitchell, age 88, of Highlands, NC, passed away peacefully on September 18th, 2015. She was born on September 26th, 1926 to the late General Warren Henry McNaught and Marion Ray McNaught. Jean was preceded in death by her loving husband of 50 years, James Robert Mitchell Sr. of Friday Harbor, WA and her brother David Alger McNaught.

Arrangements have been made through Bryant-Grant Funeral Home in Franklin, NC. Online visitors may sign the guest register at www.bryantgrantfuneralhome.com. Jean and her late husband James will be interred at a National Military Cemetery.

Jean was raised in an Army family, and made many moves in her lifetime. She was graduated from Mills College, with an undergraduate degree in Psychology, then earned her Master's Degree from Claremont Graduate University in California. Jean followed in her Father's footsteps, served as an Army Officer, as a Clinical Psychologist for several years, before going into private practice. Jean was an environmental activist, a member of the Ozark Society, Sierra Club, Cousteau Society, and Nature Conservancy. She was active in the cause against the fluoridation of water, an active member of the Natural Food Organization promoting the raising of organic foods which she accurately predicted would one day become mainstream. Jean was an avid reader, world traveler and student of the spiritual realm. She was a lifelong Unitarian.

Jean and James retired to Friday Harbor, WA, in the beautiful San Juan Islands, where they enjoyed over 20 years of retirement. While living in Friday Harbor, they captained their yacht on many trips to Canada and to Alaska. They particularly enjoyed their trips when family members joined them. Jean also served in an elected capacity as Water Commissioner. After the passing of her husband, Jean moved to NC, to be near her son, James Jr, Catherine and Grandchildren. In 2013 she traveled by Amtrak train from East to West Coast into Vancouver, BC, to board a cruise ship bound for Alaska with James, Catherine, Deena and 6 of her Grandchildren, to visit her other son Frank in Anchorage.

Jean is survived by her son Frank Warren, wife Deena Elkholy of Anchorage, AL, their children, Liam, Charlotte, Gretchen, and by her son James Robert Mitchell Jr, wife Catherine Lee Jones Mitchell of Charleston, SC and Highlands NC, their children James Robert Mitchell III, (wife Jen, Great Granddaughter Alexandra) Ashley, Courtney and Hunter. She is also survived by her sister Marion McNaught and a niece and nephew of Winston-Salem, NC.

I'm 79 but who's counting ... All about li'l ole me

No, no, no, that's not my IQ, it's my age. And the best part about being 79 is that I don't have to hold my breath while lying around in a pine box rotting away. I hate when I have to do that. Instead I'm walking around Highlands and rotting away. And should you be a fellow geezer, remember that you cannot build muscle mass at my age but you can slow down the loss with exercise. Swimming is good and Highlands has the year round swimming pool to get it done. That's my health message for this week. Are you writing this down?

Fred Wooldridge

You'll know you're near the end when you wake up one morning in a nursing home and some fat nurse with bad breath (Not from Highlands, of course.) is leaning over you, patting you on the head, speaking in baby talk, shouting, "Good morning, Mr. Fredster, and how are you today? Are you ready for your enema?" Oy! I'm not there yet!

If you're much younger than 79 then you should start feeling sorry for yourself because there's a good chance you'll never have the privilege of experiencing my age. Thoughtless fellow humans will blow up this planet long before you reach my age. Sorry to have to tell you that.

And if you haven't had a brain MRI you should put it on your bucket list. Fun, fun, fun! They clamp your head, the one containing your brain, in a tube while scary explosions take place all around you. I was using the "S" word a lot. After my MRI, I wound up in a North Palm Beach, FL. neurologist office. She was a real cutie and tinier than my li'l missus, if you can believe that. She looked to be about 16 years old. But before she walked into the examining room, I had already read about her many degrees from the University of Miami and her state board of surgery degree...blah, blah, blah. ("I'll bet she has to stand on a coke box to do her brain surgeries," I thought.)

Then she brought up an image of my brain (also scary stuff but I have copies if you want) and started pointing out all my strokes that should have killed me but didn't. She said, "This is most interesting. You are a very lucky man, Fred, because I am counting a total of four."

I didn't want to tell her about my guardian angel 'cause she would think I'm a loony... which I am, of course. Pulling my MRI disc from her computer she handed it to me and said. "If you start behaving (ha, fat chance of that happening), take your blood thinners on time, stop drinking alcohol to excess and do lots of moderate exercise, there's no reason you can't live until your mid-nineties."

So here's why I'm a lucky old geezer and you're probably not. I have memories upon memories upon memories. In the quiet, just before dawn each morning and after having my conversation with my Lord, I think of my long police career and all the fun and scary moments I've experienced. I know I've mentioned that criminals were actually afraid...sometimes even terrorized of the police. I wouldn't have had it any other way.

I have awesome memories of the wonderful people the li'l missus and I met while teaching rappelling on the cliffs of Highlands for a magnificent 13 years. WOW... what a ride that was!

I also have the memories of three successful children and nine grandchildren who have yet to prove their value. And best of all, I have the memories of my sweet baby, my li'l missus, I met on the sands of Miami Beach back in the '50s.

So don't write me off yet, folks, I have 16-plus years to go and have a Bridge partner that tolerates my bizarre behavior. No, you can't borrow him.

• Note: Fred only has a few copies left of his zany book, "I'm Moving Back to Mars." Stop him and ask for an autographed copy 'cause he's heading south soon.

4,442 at $25,148,879.

The funding increase includes an additional teaching position, and an additional position for a district instructional support staff and nine additional months of employment for monthly employees such as career and technical education and school building administration.

Cook highlighted that the new budget nearly doubled funding for textbooks, which will allow the county to update and improve books throughout the district. While driver's education funding was decreased from $72,783 to $70,471, the program still received enough funding to continue operations into the current school year.

"The recovering economy is reflected in our state allocations for 2015-16," said Superintendent Dr. Chris Baldwin. "While we are not in the position that we were before the recession, this is a budget that will allow us to address some pressing needs in our school system."

Teacher Assistants have remained a priority locally, and although the state decreased 2015 levels to $1,090,725, a decrease from $1,116,415 in 2014, Macon County will have enough funding to either hire eight teacher assistants to be distributed where needed in the county, or based on recommendations from principals in the county, could use the money to hire up 20 29 1/2 hour part-time staff positions.

Dr. Baldwin met with principals on Tuesday to discuss the funding for teacher assistants and how it will be used in the district. Each school administrator will discuss staff needs and based on an assessment of the needs in the county, the teaching assistant funding will be used to hire positions that would best serve the district's needs.

According to Dr. Baldwin, the state now funds two teaching assistants for every three kindergarten classrooms, one teacher assistant for every two first and second grade classrooms, and one teacher assistant for every three third display should move the Church from asking, "How could you?" to declaring, "How dare you!" Instead we find too many quivering in the corner, afraid of making someone uncomfortable. Yes, the Gospel message is one of forgiveness and healing, but that isn't the only role of the Church. We are the hands and feet of an almighty God, the Creator of the universe! We must remember our place, and whom we serve... the Lion of the tribe of Judah! How dare we declare His name if we aren't willing to be reflections of the God that said, "Thou shalt not kill."

A wonderful way to be a light in this ever darkening world is the Life Chain. This annual event is a simple, silent protest of abortion. We will be meeting at the First Baptist Church, this Sunday afternoon, at 1:30. The entire event will only last around one and a half hours. This isn't an end all by any means, but it is a start!

It is my prayer that pulpits will be set ablaze with a fervor that will put evil on notice. What America, and the world, needs today is not a Church that will tiptoe around evil. No, what is needed is a Church that is indignant and is no longer content to be lukewarm (Revelations 3:16)! I ask again, what does evil have to fear from you?

since 2009 using data supplied by Smith Travel Research, a leading source of information for the hospitality industry, to develop the third annual October tourism forecast for 21 counties in WNC. New for this year's forecast is the inclusion of three counties on the Tennessee side of the park.

"The class took into account factors that influence travel demand during October in the area including dramatically falling gas prices, an expanding array of fall festivals and events, new attractions and venues, new destination marketing and promotion programs, and, best of all, predictions of a vibrant fall color show in the Smoky Mountain and Blue Ridge region this year," Morse said.

"Gas prices in the Southeast are about 22 percent lower now than at this time last year," he said. "The lower gas prices in 2015 means that the average family has an additional $1,100 to spend in disposable income that they are not spending on gas."

Among the fall foliage forecasters cited by the students is Kathy Mathews, WCU associate professor of biology, who is calling for one of the best leaf-looking seasons in recent years because of drier-than-normal conditions in 2015.

In the tourism study, the WCU students divided 21 WNC counties into five groups, adding a group for the Tennessee counties. The students examined the total number of hotel rooms sold and the overall occupancy rates for October 2014; compared weekday and weekend occupancy rates from last October; and determined the average change in the number of hotel nights sold for October during the previous three years.

The students' predictions for North Carolina regions:

Region 1 – Cherokee, Clay, Graham and Macon counties: A 5.2 percent increase in October 2015 tourism compared to last October. Among the reasons for the increase, the students said, is the opening this fall of the new Harrah's Cherokee Valley River Casino in Murphy.

Region 2 – Haywood, Jackson, Transylvania and Swain counties: A 4.4 percent increase in October 2015 tourism compared to last October. Among the factors, the students said, are increased entertainment options this fall at Harrah's Cherokee Casino and Resort and three home football games at WCU this October.

Region 3 – Alleghany, Ashe, Avery, Caldwell, Watauga and Wilkes counties: A 5 percent increase in October 2015 tourism compared to last October. Contributing factors include proximity to the Blue Ridge Parkway coupled with falling gas prices, the students said.

in plant systematics and bases her color forecast on both past and predicted weather conditions. She believes the formation of higher levels of pigments in the leaves correlates with dry weather throughout the year, but especially as fall arrives.

"This fall could be one of the best leaf color seasons in Western North Carolina in recent memory," Mathews said. "Three words explain it – unusually dry weather."

U.S. Geological Survey records indicate that the region had been drier than normal for most of the year, but with enough rain, particularly in the months of April and June, to avoid drought and keep the trees healthy, she said.

Sugar concentrations in the leaves increase during dry weather because the trees are not taking up as much water through their roots, Mathews said. The abundance of sugars leads to the production of more anthocyanins, the red pigments that appear when green chlorophylls begin receding. "That's what causes the leaf colors to really pop, along with the simultaneous appearance of orange and yellow pigments on the same or different tree species," she said.

Some foliage fans may be wondering if the much-publicized El Nino weather pattern may affect the fall colors. Meteorologists are predicting a light hurricane season in the Atlantic this year, partly because of dry air over the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean caused by El Nino, and that reduces the chances of heavy rain and big wind storms in the mountains in August and September – good news for the leaf display, Mathews said.

Leaf peepers always want to know when the "peak color" will happen, but the timing of the color change is highly dependent on the decreasing amount of sunlight that comes with the passing days, plus the elevation of a particular location, she said. "The peak of fall color often arrives during the first and second week of October in the highest elevations, above 4,000 feet, and during the third week of October in the mid-elevations, 2,500 to 3,500 feet," Mathews said. Visitors can look for leaves to be peaking in color intensity a few days after the first reported frost in any particular area, she said.

Regardless of all the factors that affect leaf color, visitors to Western NC will always find a pleasing leaf display somewhere in the mountains from September into November, with a wide range of color made possible by the region's elevations ranging from 1,500 feet to over 6,000 feet and the more than 100 tree species, Mathews said.

Region 4 – Burke, Madison, McDowell, Mitchell and Yancey counties: A 5 percent increase in October 2015 tourism compared to last October. The students again cited proximity to the Blue Ridge Parkway and cheaper gasoline as reasons behind the expected increase.

Region 5 – Buncombe and Henderson counties: A 4.2 percent increase in October 2015 tourism compared to last October. "A 4.2 percent increase for this October over last year is a very significant uptick for an already-strong tourism market in the Buncombe and Henderson areas," Morse said. "They have launched new destination advertising and promotions programs and have extended their media reach into new feeder cities, with an increase in festivals and events around the growing craft beer industry."

The students' predictions for the three Tennessee counties:

Sevier County: A 4.2 increase in October 2015 tourism compared to last October. The students cited the strong tourism market in Gatlinburg, Pigeon Forge and Sevierville supplemented by new attractions and restaurants including Dollywood's new four-star family resort hotel called Dream-More, the Jimmy Buffet-themed Margaritaville hotel and restaurant in Pigeon Forge and the Rocky Top Sports World complex in Gatlinburg.

Blount and Monroe counties: A 4.1 increase in October 2015 tourism compared to last October. Contributing factors include the expected vibrant fall colors and lower gas prices, prompting more travel along Cades Cove in Great Smoky Mountains National Park and along the Cherokee Skyway from Tellico Plains in Tennessee to Robbinsville in North Carolina.

The October tourism forecast is part of a series of reports about travel trends in the mountain region provided by Morse and his students. grade classrooms. Once that requirement is met, the additional eight teacher assistant positions will be distributed where needed.

Dr. Baldwin noted that as a county, Macon County education leaders make it a priority that all Kindergarten classrooms have teacher assistants, which would be a priority when debating where the additional funding will be spent.

Sept. 17 Town Board tidbits

Following a long discussion about Knotweed at the Town Board meeting last Thursday, commissioners agreed to provide $2,500 toward the eradication of knotweed on town rights-of-way within the town limits.

Members of the Land Stewards were present and passionately discussed the need to reinstate the eradication program that was recommended and started in 2006.

Complete eradication of the plant that smothers native plants and thereby affects habitats of native birds, rodents and insects, requires a multi-year program.

Commissioners didn't have a problem with resurrecting the program, they just didn't want town employees doing it.

The Land Stewards said as in the past they would hire a licensed person to perform the task which would involve erecting barriers behind the knotweed to keep the poison – Round Up – from killing neighboring plants.

Commissioner Brian Stiehler, who is licensed to apply pesticides, was appointed as a liaison to ensure the right person and correct techniques were used to eradicate the plant.

Applications of Round Up must be done in two 3-week cycles before the first frost.

Recreation Fee Update

Now that the pool is up and running Parks and Recreation Director Lester Norris said it was time to look at and possibly adjust the recreation fees.

The board agreed and so adjustments were made.

Most of the adjustments involved the pool. Those who have already purchased memberships to the pool or the pool and

Bird flu precautions could cause shortage of turkeys

Since it was first identified in the United States in December 2014 in the Pacific Northwest, highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI), aka, the Bird Flu, has been detected in commercial and backyard poultry flocks, wild birds, or captive wild birds in 21 states.

While the impact has been felt across the country, in Macon County, fairgoers noticed that the traditional poultry entries at the fair were missing this year due to the state's ban on poultry exhibitions to avoid spreading the Bird Flu.

Although a new case of the Bird Flu hasn't been detected since June, since December 2014, 211 commercial and 21 backyard poultry premises have been affected, resulting in a depopulation of 7.5 million turkeys and 42.1 million egg-laying and pullet chickens. The outbreak has resulted in devastating effects to businesses in the industry, and a cost to federal taxpayers of over $950 million.

With migration season for birds beginning in October, Dr. Jimmy Villiard, personal health section administrator for the Macon County Health Department, updated the board of health last week on the county's preparedness and response plan to prevent further impact in Macon County.

"Our fall planning activities assumed a worst-case scenario beginning in mid-September, with HPAI occurring simultaneously in multiple sectors of the poultry industry throughout the nation," said Villiard.

fitness center package can either get a refund or apply the balance to another Rec Park amenity.

The fee for an individual to swim for a month was reduced from $50 to $35; $85 for three months in the summer and $250 annually.

A family (regardless of its numbers) can swim for $7 a day, $55 for a month, $140 for three months in the summer or $425 per year – that is down from the original $500 a year.

Water aerobics is $4 per class or $30 per month (12 visits)

Pool parties are $75 with a $50 deposit.

Pool with Fitness memberships are $10 per day for an individual; $55 for a month, $120 for three months in the summer or $300 annually.

Pool with Fitness for a family is $18 per day; $90 per month; $200 for three months in the summer or $525 annually.

Corporations with 10 or less employee

"Under this scenario, 500 or more commercial establishments of various sizes across a large geographical area could be affected, including commercial high-volume poultry establishments, the live bird marketing system, and backyard flocks."

The additional local impact due to bird migration possibility spreading the Bird Flu won't be known until it hits, but according to Macon County Board of Health Director Jim Bruckner, the migration path for birds is a direct flight through Macon County. With a devastating loss in mid-west states already, the Bird Flu has a potential to impact the availability of turkeys this Thanksgiving.

According to Villard, stockpiling turkeys for Thanksgiving begins in December, and with knowledge of the outbreak in Dec. 2014, the industry began preparing for 2015, which as of May, has resulted in a 3 percent increase in turkeys. But with turkeys in the midwest and soon to be North Carolina still awaiting further impact, it is likely that turkey prices will increase this Thanksgiving and a shortage will be experienced across the country.

As part of the county's response plan, signs to look for in birds were identified as a lack of energy and appetite, decreased egg production or soft/mishapen eggs, swelling of the head, eyelids and comb; purple discoloration of the wattles, combs and legs; stumbling, falling down, diarrhea; and sudden death.

can pay $1,000 annually for a pool/fitness pass; those with 10-25 employees pay $1,500 and those with 25+ employees pay $2,000 per year.

The monthly cost for tennis was reduced to $20 from $60.

Fees for the After School Program were adjusted, too.

The daily charge is $2 per child. The Rec Camp is $3 for the first child per hour, $24 daily or $135 weekly. Each additional child is $2 per hours, or $18 per day or $90 per week.

There are also pre-paid specials for Rec Camp. The full session is $800 for the first child; $450 for 4 weeks, or $120 per week. For each additional child it's $400 for the full session, $224 for 4 weeks and $75 per week.

The K-H Founders Park rate is now $200 for the weekend instead of $250 per day.

Lastly, Friends of the Park officially signed Phase 2 of the park over to the town.

All Male Beauty Pageant coming Oct. 12

The Highlands Bolivian Mission is announcing its All Male Beauty Pageant to be held at the Highlands Playhouse on Monday, Oct. 12 at 8PM. There will be a complimentary wine bar beginning at 7PM sponsored by Bryson's Food Store.

Tickets are available at Wilson's Gas, Dr. Baker's office at the Woodruff Building, second floor and by calling 526-3605. Order early as the Playhouse holds only 220 seats.

Dr. Baumrucker stated, "This is our big fundraiser for the year. Every other year we have an auction at one of the country clubs and on the odd numbered years (not a coincidence that it is the odd years) we hold the beauty pageant. This is a fun filled event with 12-15 well known men from the community who care enough about the mission and all its good works to make fools of themselves for the good of the mission. We compete in three categories, evening gown, talent, and lingerie. It is all good fun and it is an easy way to support the mission. The $100 donation per ticket is all tax deductible as we guarantee the patrons will receive nothing of value for their donation. This year's theme will be "Show Tunes and Classics." Normally we don't allow previous winners of the coveted title of "Missed Highlands" to win again, but this year's competition is going to be open to all and there are 6 previous winners in the show this year so it should be a great event. Cynthia Rosen will be the MC again and she brings a little class to the show."

The mission supports medical concern of the poor in Montero, Bolivia and 12 houses have been built, but the main focus of the mission is now the foster home where 21 boys now reside. Three of the boys, having reached 18 years old, have now come to the United States as exchange students to learn English well and to see the possibilities of what life can be like. Dr. John said, "I want our boys to become great Bolivians, not good Americans. English will be a great advantage as they go out into their world as adults."

Tickets are available at Wil-son's Gas, Dr. Baker's office at the Woodruff Building, second floor and by calling 526-3605. Order early as the Playhouse holds only 220 seats.

Highlands Own Arts & Crafts Show and HomeTown Day Nearing

With less than two weeks to go, the Town of Highlands has been working hard to gather crafters from near and far to join the 33rd annual Highlands Own Arts & Crafts Show and to make the 3rd annual HomeTown Day another success. On Saturday, October 10th, 2015, the Town hopes residents and visitors alike will come out to support both events.

The Highlands Own Arts & Crafts Show will be held at the Highlands Civic Center, 600 North 4th Street, from 9am until 4pm. With closet and professional crafters showcasing a variety of merchandise from jams, jellies, bread, to paintings, jewelry and crochet or knitted items. There is sure to be something that appeals to all. The Highlands Chapter #284 Order of the Eastern Star will be serving breakfast and lunch featuring Dennis "Doc" Wilson's famous barbeque.

HomeTown Day activities will be hosted at Kelsey Hutchinson Founders Park, 441 Pine Street. Activities will include craft and farmers' market vendors, food, music, clogging and activities for the whole family. This year's performers will be the Boys from Tuckasegee and Highway 74, also featured at this year's Mountain Heritage Day at WCU.

Information can be found at www.highlandscnc.org or by contacting Rebecca Shuler at Town Hall by phone (828)526.2118, by email rebecca.shuler@highlandscnc.org, or mail PO Box 460, Highlands, NC 28741. All proceeds and donations will benefit the Highlands Scholarship Fund.

Highlands on the Half Shell, Sunday, Oct 4 at the Highlands Biological Station

On Sunday, October 4th a group of Highlands residents and supporters of the Highlands Biological Foundation are hosting "Highlands on the Half-Shell" on the campus of the Highlands Biological Station. Feast on oysters and gumbo while enjoying the energetic tunes of Asheville's Firecracker Jazz Band and our Bloody Mary Bar. The Highlands Biological Foundation is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that provides critical support for the Biological Station and it's three facets: the Nature Center, Botanical Garden and Biological Laboratory. Thanks to the generosity of members and community residents, admission to the Nature Center and Botanical Garden is free and numerous students and research projects are funded at the Highlands Biological Station. Please Join us to support the mission of the Highlands Biological Station: "To foster research and education focused on the rich natural heritage of the southern Appalachian mountains." Knowing that your support is directly contributing to conservation efforts, research and education to better understand the exceptional organisms in the southern Appalachian Mountains, you'll find that oysters and gumbo have never tasted – and jazz never sounded - so good.

The fun starts at 12:30pm and will last until 3:30. Come dressed in your favorite "Cajun casual." Tickets are $100 for members and $125 for non-members. To purchase tickets, visit www.highlandsbiological.org/half-shell/. This event is hosted by Nancy & Lyle Nichols, Martha & Hal Stibbs, Jennie & Sto Stowers, Cookie & Harrison Jones, Julia & Bill Grumbles, Amanda & Greg Gregory, Vevie & Lawrence Dimmitt, Paul Sanger, Diane & Ray McPhail, Miriam & Vernon Skiles, Glenda & Griffin Bell and Ruth and Barry Edwards.

Read2Me "Reading Matters in Macon"

According to the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), a division of the U.S. Department of Education, children who are read to at home enjoy a substantial advantage over children who are not.

Since their inception, Read2Me has been working to spread their mission, "Reading matters in Macon," across the county. Each fall, Read2Me teams up with the Western Mountain Reading Council and the Macon County Public Library to host a fun, family-filled parent training event to teach parents of preschool children the importance of raising a reader.

This year's parent training event is themed "Roll Into Reading," and is entirely free to the public. The parents and children will

"We are so excited to be teaming up with Smoky Mountain Bicycles this year to host a bicycle safety course in conjunction with our parent training," said Brittany Raby, member of Read2Me. "Western Mountain Reading Council will be hosting activity tables inside the library for parents and their preschool children, and then families can step out into the library parking lot to get their helmet's fitting checked and have their bike's inspected by the pros from Smoky Mountain Bicycles."

There will be door prizes and snacks and every child in attendance will be given a free book to take home.

"We encourage families to bring their bicycles out to take a ride on the course that will be set up and to make sure their helmets are fitted properly and our safe," said Raby. "The arts and crafts planned for the event will all fall into the 'Roll Into Reading' theme and will be great for all ages. We are so excited to be hosting our 4th annual parent training event!"

Roll Into Reading is scheduled for Saturday, October 3 from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the Macon County Public Library. For more information, call the library's children's department at 828.524.3600.

Highlands is Truly Heaven!

One of the benefits of being a real estate Broker in this special area is the remarkable clients one meets. A special couple came into my life six weeks ago, and the lure of Highlands started the relationship.

Jody Lovell
Highlands/Sotheby's

highlandssir.com

A call came into the office on a Saturday. A perky, female voice asked if she could speak to an experienced real estate Broker. Answering that I have been a Broker in Highlands for 15 years, I passed the test. She explained that she and her husband had an apartment in New York and a condo in Palm Beach. They sold a home on a lake in Maine three years ago and became restless to have another home in the mountains on a lake. She read about Highlands when Barron's claimed Highlands as one of the top 20 best retirement towns, and she was curious why this area rated so high. After a lengthy conversation explaining all the wonderful natural and cultural amenities of this area, the caller declared she was scheduling a visit the following week.

As we do not have Uber yet on the Plateau, I insisted on picking her up at the Asheville airport: I was concerned about a first-time visitor to the state of North Carolina, let alone this area, feeling comfortable by herself driving on our mountain roads. After a delightful, chatty trip to Highlands and dinner at a club full of welcoming people, we started our home search the next day. By the end of the day, she had picked out a home, made an offer (with her husband in tow by phone) and we successfully negotiated the contract the next day.

This darling couple came this week and closed on their home. They keep enthusiastically claiming that they feel "they died and went to heaven." They have traveled extensively and said that none of the towns including Nantucket, the Hamptons nor Aspen compare to our sweet town of Highlands. This constant validation of why we are all here reminds me daily not to take our environment for granted.

Wood and I visited Monticello last year. Thomas Jefferson's quote on October 12, 1786 still resonates in my heart about Highlands this

October 1, 2015:

"How sublime to look down into the workhouse of nature, to see her clouds, hail, snow, rain, thunder, all fabricated at our feet! And the glorious Sun, when rising out of a distant water, just gilding the tops of the mountains, and giving life to all nature!"

Happy Fall to everyone!!

Familiar faces assume new roles at the Highlands Playhouse

You might see a familiar face, or two, if you come by the Highlands Playhouse this winter. Jimmy Lewis, a beloved stage veteran over the past three seasons, has joined the Playhouse team as they begin work on next year's season. Joining him is Kameron Stambaugh, who has served the Playhouse in a variety of roles over the past three years – including intern, performer, and Box Office Manager. These two up-and-coming theatre artists will be handling the day to day operations, while Artistic Director William Patti maintains his role on a part-time basis during the off season.

"I love the area and community," Lewis says, "so when they asked me to come back and ensure that next season is as incredible as the past three, I immediately said yes!"

Jimmy will take on the role of Outreach Coordinator, becoming the liaison between the town and the Playhouse. "After meeting so many patrons at the shows and interacting with other community members around town, I am excited to get to know each of them, make sure they know how important they are to the Playhouse, and to express how much their support means to people like myself."

The Outreach Coordinator is a new role that Playhouse President Scott Allbee thinks will revitalize community engagement. "Jimmy is perhaps the most popular performer we have had over the past five or six years. We wanted to bring him in to develop our patron base and engage with the Highlands community. The people of this town are our lifeblood, and we need to create, develop, and enrich those relationships. Jimmy is the perfect person for the job, and we are thrilled to have him." Stambaugh, who is being promoted to Theatre Manager, has spent the past few months as the theatre's Box Office Manager. Her original contract only kept her in Highlands through Labor Day. "I'm so thrilled to be taking this position on full time. I fell in love with this theatre and community in 2013, and that love has only grown over the past few months," Stambaugh confessed. Her responsibilities will include overseeing the movie theatre, Playhouse staff, and advertising and social media. "Kameron is an incredible dedicated employee. She works long hours, and always commits to getting the job done. We were thrilled when she agreed to stay with us," Allbee said.

"The Playhouse has been moving in such a positive direction and I can't wait to continue moving forward," Lewis says. "We had such a successful summer that I think we can only keep moving up. I'm just excited to be a part of it," Stambaugh added. "The Highlands Playhouse is one of the oldest professional theatres in the country. We have grown leaps and bounds over the past few years, and this past year – I might argue, was our strongest season yet. This infusion of young blood, with fresh ideas and bold initiatives will give the Playhouse the ability to continue to grow. It is an exciting time for all of us," Patti concluded.

CALLING ALL HIGHLANDS LEAF PEEPERS!

©Clay Bolt

Have you wondered about the science behind the natural artistry of fall foliage color change? Related phenomena like the reddening of Galax and other evergreen herbs in winter? How about the economics of leaf peeping? This is the program to answer these questions and more about seasonal foliage color change!

The Highlands Biological Station is pleased to team up with our friends at the CLE to co-sponsor "Appreciating Fall Foliage Color: Where Science Meets Art Meets Economics," with Dr. Howard Neufeld of Appalachian State University.

Thursday, October 8th, from 1:00 – 3:00 PM

The first half of this 2-hour program will take place in the CLE classroom at the Peggy Crosby Center. The second half will be enjoyed outdoors on a fall foliage walk through the gardens and grounds of the Highlands Biological Station.

For information about costs and to register for this program please go to:

<http://www.clehighlands.org/register-here.html>
(Walk-in registrations are welcome)

A member of the HBS Board of Directors, Dr. Neufeld is a plant physiologist who has studied the biology of leaves and their physiological adaptations. For many years he was the Alan Greenspan of fall foliage forecasting for the North Carolina Department of Commerce!

Don't forget the El Capitan class on October 6, 10:30-3:30 Cost $70/$80.

The spacious grounds and unique buildings of The Bascom are available for rent. Large, medium and small-sized venues for receptions, weddings, meetings and other gatherings are available to the entire community.

The Main Building Atrium and Terrace can accommodate numerous guests, while The Horst Winkler Sculpture Trail's Pavilion would be the perfect site for an intimate ceremony with a small reception. Whether you are planning your only daughter's wedding, corporate board meeting and retreat, company party, or large birthday bash for your best friends, The Bascom has a unique setting for every special occasion.

The Bascom's list of approved caterers will provide many choices for you to have the perfect event.

• BIZ/ORG NEWS •

At the Highlands Rotary meeting, Thomas Craig introduced Bill Edwards of Southern Wine & Spirits. Bill provided interesting information on how the distribution of wine and spirits is handled. This very complex process is different from state to state; involving the federal and state governments. Bill also gave a brief history of the founder of Southern Wine & Spirits. He is self-made man who gives back to the community.

This Thing is from Me

By David Jeremiah

Excerpt from "A Bend in the Road"

Submitted by Pastor Dan Robinson

Highlands Central Baptist Church

My child, I have a message for you today. Let me whisper it in your ear, that it may gild with glory any storm clouds which may arise and smooth the rough places upon which you may have to tread. It is short – only five words – but let them sink into your inmost soul; use them as a pillow upon which to rest your weary head. . .

This Thing is from Me.

Have you every thought of it, that all that concerns you, concerns me, too? For "he that touches you, touches the apple of his eye." (Zechariah 2:8).

I would have you learn when temptations assail you and the enemy comes in like a flood, that his thing is from me, that your weakness needs. My might, and your safety lies in letting me fight for you.

You are very "precious in my sight" (Isaiah 43:4). Therefore it is my special delight to educate you.

Are you in money difficulties? Is it hard to make both ends meet? This thing is from me, for I am your purse-bearer, and would have you draw from and depend upon me. My supplies are limitless (Philippians 4:19) I would have you prove my promise. Let it not be said of you, 'you did not believe the Lord your God' (Deuteronomy 1:32).

Are you in difficult circumstances, surrounded by people who do not understand you, who never consult your taste, who put you in the background? This thing is from me. I am the God of circumstances. You came not to this place by accident; it is the very place God meant for you. Have you not asked to be made humble? See, then, I have placed you in the very school where this lesson is taught; your surroundings and companions are only working out my will.

Are you passing through a night of sorrow? This thing is from me. I am the "Man of Sorrows, and acquainted with grief." I have let early comforters fail you, that by turning to me, you may obtain everlasting consolation. (2 Thessalonians 2:16, 17).

Has some friend disappointed you? One to whom you opened out your heart? This thing is from me. I have allowed this disappointment to come, that you may learn.

I want to be your confidant. Has someone repeated things about you that are unfair? Leave them to me and draw closer to me, they shelter out of reach of "the strife of tongues," for I "shall bring forth my righteousness as the light, and my judgement as the noonday." (Psalm 37:6)

Have your plans been upset? Are you bowed down and weary? This thing is from me. You made your plans, then came asking me to bless them; but I would have you let me plan for you, and then I take the responsibility; for "this thing is too much for you, you are not able to perform it by yourself." (Exodus 18:18). You are only an instrument, not an agent.

Have you longed to do some great work for me and instead been bid aside on a bed of pain and weakness? This thing is from me. I could not get your attention in your busy days and I want to teach you some of my deepest lessons, "They also serve who only stand and wait." Some of my greatest workers are those shut out from active service that they may learn to wield the weapon of prayer.

Are you suddenly called upon to occupy a difficult and responsible position? Launch out on me. I am trusting you with the possession of difficulties. "for this thing the Lord our God will bless you in all your works and in all to which you put your hand." (Deuteronomy 15:10).

This day I place in your hands this pot of holy oil; make use of it freely, my child. Let every circumstance as it arises, every word that pains you, every interruption that would make you impatient, every revelation of your own weakness, be anointed with it! Remember, interruptions are divine instructions. The sting will go as you learn to see me in all things.

Therefore, "set your hearts on all the words which I testify among you today ... for it is not a futile thing for you, because it is your life, and by this work you shall prolog your days in the land" (Deuteronomy 32: 46, 47.)

The moment we accept the fact that our ordeal has been permitted, even intended by God, our perspective on disruptive moments will totally change. We will find ourselves saying, "God, you have allowed this in my life. I don't understand it, but I know that It couldn't have happened to me unless it was filtered through your loving hands. So, this thing is from you."

Cullasaja Women's Outreach donates $130,500 in support of Highlands; has donated over $855,000 to Highlands-Cashiers not-for-profits since 2006

Cullasaja Women's Outreach (CWO) today announced the results of its 2015 fundraising efforts to advance the charitable works of not-for-profit organizations in the Highlands and Cashiers communities. The grassroots organization raised $130,500 this past season. Since its inception in 2006, Cullasaja Women's Outreach has invested over $855,000 in the Highlands and Cashiers area not-for-profits—a phenomenal amount for an independent grassroots organization made up of about 80 women from the Cullasaja Club community.

Funds raised this year were awarded to 19 organizations in the Highlands-Cashiers area through a sophisticated grants process led by CWO Grant Co-Chairs Nancy Harrison and Annette Lovell. Individual awards ranged from $2,000 to $7,000. This year's grant recipients included: Blue Ridge Free Dental Clinic; Boys and Girls Club of the Plateau; Cashiers-Highlands Humane Society; Community Care Clinic of Highlands-Cashiers; Counseling & Psychotherapy Center of Highlands; Fishes & Loaves Food Pantry; Friends of Founders Park; The Gathering Table, Inc. Highlands-Cashiers Chamber Music; Highlands Emergency Council; Highlands Historical Society; Highlands-Cashiers Land Trust; Highlands Playhouse; Hospice House Foundation of Western North Carolina for compassion care for Plateau residents; Literacy Council of Highlands, Inc.; Martin-Lipscomb Performing Arts Center; The Peggy Crosby Service Center; Summit Charter School and The Bascom children's outreach program.

"Our goal is to maximize the impact we, collectively, have upon the Highlands-Cashiers community," noted Mrs. Harrison. "We work to leverage our knowledge, insights and resources for a greater impact than any one of us can make alone," added her co-chair partner, Annette Lovell.

"Cullasaja Women's Outreach members and supporters, once again, have enthusiastically responded to voices of need around us," commented Executive Director Frazer

McCrorey. "Together, we are touching the lives of many here on the plateau, by helping to cover costs for dental, medical and mental health services...by offering programs to children who otherwise might not have the opportunity to participate...and by supporting special cultural offerings here in Highlands."

"Moreover," noted Executive Director Margaret Eichman, "in giving, we transform our sense of self. Our members connect to the community in a special way. They truly feel a joy in giving."

Partnering with the Community Foundation of Western North Carolina, CWO established a CFWNC-CWO Charities fund, which enables the group to raise funds each summer and award them through a judicious grants process to make a meaningful difference in the local community. To date, Cullasaja Women's Outreach has assisted thirty local not-for-profit and charitable organizations in their efforts to enhance the community.

Cullasaja Women's Outreach is an independent collective of women, who believe in reaching out to each other and to local organizations through philanthropy, volunteerism and friendship to build a stronger community.
