Mission CEOs stand by HCA merger

Be that as it may, the time to lament about the community's Highlands-Cashiers Hospital is long gone. It ended a little over four years ago when the Highlands-Cashiers Hospital Board voted to turn over everything associated with the hospital to Mission Health.

Since Mission Health owns the campus – property, buildings, equipment, furniture – it can do what it deems best for the future of healthcare in Highlands and Cashiers, as well as the 18-county Western Carolina region it now serves.

It was its “hub and spoke” healthcare model that enticed

Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) to consider partnering with Mission Health. The “hub” is Asheville and the spokes are everywhere else Mission has a presence – Franklin, Brevard, Blue Ridge, McDowell, etc.

HCA – a for-profit corporation in 20 states, with 180 hospitals and outpatient centers – is large in scale and scope, said Mission Health President and CEO Dr. Ron Paulus last week. “This is the way of healthcare today. The benefit of this transaction is to drive down the cost of doing business and do it more effectively.”

HCA is based in Nashville, TN and partnering with Mission will establish its presence in North Carolina.

On March 22, Letters of Intent were signed to explore the possibility of joining HCA.

Citizens clean up byways

On Saturday, April 21 the annual “Gorge Road Pickup” took place on the Highlands Plateau. A few years ago, the pickup was expanded to include NC 28, NC 106, US 64 east and roads in town.

For about three hours, 80 volunteers filled up 200 bags amounting to a few tons of discarded trash.

One-Stop Early Voting: Use it or lose it

Mayor Pat Taylor has already cast his vote and he urges others to do the same.

As of Tuesday, 89 votes have been cast at the Civic Center; 191 in Franklin.

“If enough people don’t turn out for One Stop Early Voting, the Board of Elections will not offer it as a service in the future,” he said.

Early Voting will close Saturday, May 5 at 1 p.m. There are two locations, at which any Macon County resident may vote despite their residential address.

Site #1: The Board of Election Office located in the basement of the MC Courthouse Room 127B open Monday-Friday 8 a.m.-5 p.m. and Saturdays 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Site #2: The Highlands Civic Center located 600 N. 4th Street in Highlands open Monday-Friday 9 a.m.-4 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

One-Stop Early voting ends at both locations Saturday, May 5 at 1 p.m.

The future of our hospital and trash talk

I want to highlight two items from the busy past week.

At Thursday's Town Board meeting, Jackie Medland, our Highlands-Cashiers Hospital CEO, provided an update on the status of the proposed merger between Mission Healthcare and Hospital Corporation of America.

I appreciate Jackie's willingness to meet with the board. Commissioners asked some challenging and difficult questions. She suggested returning for a follow-up where these questions can be answered in more detail.

Prior to this briefing, Commissioner Brian Stiehler, Town Manager Josh Ward and I attended a morning meeting with Dr. Ron Paulus, the CEO of Mission. Dr. Paulus emphasized that this merger would help contain future healthcare costs in Western Carolina. He emphasized the merger is essential for Mission to continue to serve not just the Highlands-Cashiers area, but the entire region.

I understand the challenges facing healthcare and future challenges. On the other hand, I believe we are in a period of reflection and possible exploration of other options. The caveat here is that we don't really have many options. Nevertheless, representatives from Duke LifePoint and C.K. Harris Hospital in Sylva will be at the Community Coffee with the Mayor tomorrow morning, Friday at 11 pm, at the Hudson Library. The CEO of Duke LifePoint, Steve Heatherly, will share his views about regional healthcare. Duke LifePoint recently held meetings with Cashiers residents, and indicated to me a willingness to share their perspectives with Highlands residents also.

Highlands Mayor
Patrick Taylor

I believe as we go through this period of review and inquiry, the outcome will be a healthcare system that even better serves this community. An open and candid dialogue will strengthen community support.

The second big event was the Highlands Plateau Cleanup on Saturday. Let me congratulate the Highlands Chamber of Commerce for putting on another great event. I also want to thank the town sanitation workers. According to Public Works Director Lamar Nix, they transported over 18 cubic yards of trash to the landfill. The Macon County Sheriff's Office and the Highlands Police were essential in helping manage traffic. The U.S. Forrest Service employees again helped by collecting the many bags of trash from the Gorge Road. And of course, over 80 volunteers made this all possible. Volunteers were on the Gorge Road, NC 28 and 106, US 64 east, Cliffside Recreational Area, Hicks and Flat Mountain roads.

I appreciate our civic clubs who sup-

Matzke now Managing Director at the Playhouse

The Highlands Playhouse Board of Directors has announced the promotion of Lance Matzke to managing director, effective immediately. Following an extensive national search and multiple interviews, Matzke was the unanimous choice of board members.

"We were very pleased with the level of talent who applied for the position, but our best candidate was right under our nose," said Ken Proctor, board president. "Lance has a passion for the performing and cinematic arts, he already understands the unique cultural needs of our region, and he displayed a vision for our organization that aligns with our long-term strategy."

Matzke has been serving as interim managing director since mid-February and previously served as box office manager since September 2016. In that position, he acquired a comprehensive knowledge of nearly all operational and office duties. As interim managing director, Proctor says he exceeded board members' expectations in all aspects of managing the Playhouse.

"I'm very honored to have been chosen and have a great amount of respect for the Board and the patrons and businesses who generously support the Playhouse," said Matzke. "I look forward to generating more exposure for the Playhouse and strengthening community partnerships to further elevate our stature with residents and visitors alike. We have a very compelling story to tell as both a summer stock theatre and year-round independent movie house."

Matzke holds a bachelor's degree from the University of South Florida in English Literature. He also holds a Specialized Associates degree in Cinema from the State College of Florida. As a middle and high school English teacher, Lance had the opportunity to work with students in his school theater programs. He also volunteered for professional theater companies in Sarasota, FL.

Broccoli & Arugula Soup

This is a clean, basic approach to soup that showcases the vegetable. You can make this with nearly anything – including peas and basil, zucchini, carrots and ginger. In this case, broccoli is made a bit more dynamic with a handful of peppery arugula. When you're detoxing and drinking lots of juices and smoothies, it's a nice change to have something warm. This recipe makes enough soup for at least two portions, so share with your loved one or save a portion for lunch the next day.

Ingredients

1 tablespoon organic unrefined coconut oil
1 clove garlic, thinly sliced
1/2 yellow onion, roughly diced

1 head broccoli, cut into small florets (about 2/3 pound)

2 1/2 cups filtered water

1/4 teaspoon each coarse salt and freshly ground black pepper

3/4 cup arugula (watercress would be good, too)

1/2 lemon, thinly sliced to use as a garnish

Directions

1. Heat the coconut oil in a medium saucepan over low-medium heat.

2. Add the garlic and onion and sauté for just a minute or until fragrant.

3. Add the broccoli and cook for four minutes or until bright green.

4. Add the water, salt and pepper, bring to a boil, lower the heat and cover.

5. Cook for eight minutes or until the broccoli is just tender.

6. Pour the soup into a blender and puree with the arugula until quite smooth (be very careful when blending hot liquids; start slowly and work in batches if necessary -you don't want the steam to blow the lid off!)

7. Pour into a warm bowl, garnish with fresh lemon and enjoy!

Both parties are now in the 120-day due diligence period during which joint integration and strategic planning is under way as well as the formation of a mega-foundation that will serve Mission's 18-county region.

Once both parties are satisfied, Regulatory Review begins by the NC Attorney General who will determine if the merger is in the best interest of the residents of North Carolina. If the NC Attorney General gives the final OK, Mission Health will join HCA by Oct. 1, 2018 at the earliest but likely the end of 2018 or the beginning of 2019, according to H-C Hospital CEO Jackie Medland.

The new mega-foundation, which will have nothing to do with the H-C Foundation currently in place will be seeded with money from the HCA/Mission Health merger.

Mission Health's debts/pay-offs and working capital adjustment will be subtracted from its cash and investments and any remaining net cash/investments plus the agreed upon purchase price will seed the new mega-foundation.

According to Medland, who spoke at the April 19 Town Board meeting, the existing H-C Hospital Foundation is totally independent of HCA and the new foundation.

"In the past, the H-C Hospital Foundation's job was to keep the doors open. Now that's HCA's job. So, the H-C Hospital Foundation has a new mission ... it needs to reinvent itself and decide how it can promote health and wellness in the area in the future," she said.

According to the Institute of Medicine, 10% of a person's health is determined by the medical facility. 10%-20% is driven by the medical care system. 40% percent is determined by lifestyle choices and 30% is determined by DNA.

The H-C Hospital Foundation can now use its funds for education programs, grants, a myriad of things, said Medland and Paulus.

Medland said acquiring Mission Health is a move outside the box for HCA. Mission has built a network of facilities and HCA sees that as an anchor in the state.

"They usually come in and sweep up distressed systems. But when it came to Mission Health, they recognized a high quality "hub and spoke" model that has done, what it has done, very successfully. Mission Health is a fundamentally sound business model for HCA," she said.

Medland said HCA understands the business of healthcare, and Mission knows how to deliver healthcare.

When Mission Health took over Highlands-Cashiers Hospital it was $6 million in debt. In a little over four years it has reduced that debt to $1 million.

"It's a lean operation at H-C Hospital," said Medland.

It's that "trimming" that has many citizens dissatisfied, saying services have been cut and it's nothing more than a glorified Emergency Room instead of the "community" hospital they inmunity, said Commissioner John Dotson at the Town Board meeting.

"You had two communities come together because they needed healthcare. The money to build it came out of the back pocket of real live people ... our collective hands ... and now it's not our hospital," he said.

Medland said she understands people's fears but she truly believes partnering with HCA will ensure the viability of healthcare on the plateau.

"Highlands-Cashiers Hospital is solely an asset of Mission Health. So, the fear that you are losing your grasp is a well-founded fear because it's not the community's anymore. We will meet the needs differently, but it will be exactly what we need," she said.

From a business perspective, Paulus said the Highlands-Cashiers Hospital as a stand-alone entity has no value and it was never sustainable.

"It was losing money every year. You just won't find people lining up to lose more money moving forward," he said. "HCA is looking at this through the lens of how they can meet the community's needs and meet financial goals. HCA is buying the entity as a whole. If Mission wasn't involved, it wouldn't be buying this."

Paulus said in rural America, hospitals are closing or becoming micro-hospitals.

"Long before Mission, Highlands-Cashiers Hospital was the first ever micro-hospital because you had Jane Woodruff and others who were willing to pay for something that didn't make any sense to have," said Paulus.

Commissioner Donnie Calloway said the Emergency Room is top-notch but the hospital is lacking in services.

"What we are missing is everyday healthcare because of doctors coming and going. The emergency care is good but it's the lack of stability and the lack of services that's got everyone concerned," he said.

However, Dr. Paulus and Medland both believe Mission has improved healthcare on the plateau while citizens say it's nothing but a glorified Emergency Room.

"It's true that inpatient surgery was eliminated, but that is something the local board did without even asking or telling me," said Paulus. "I came and they told me they closed it down, but that is the only significant change in services," he said.

Paulus said the H-C Hospital has always been mostly an ER yet services offered on the campus are the most essential services needed in a rural area – an ER, access to specialty imaging and complicated services virtual or real.

"Saying it's just a big ER is a short-shrift statement because it implies that ER is just cuts and bruises; it is in fact life-saving," he said.

However, Medland said she is working on rebuilding services in Highlands but said if a population is small it's not possible to add more services without losing money. She said the hospital just can't afford full-time specialists.

"However, in addition to expanded ambulatory services, we have brought back light surgeries like scopes so you don't have to go elsewhere for a colonoscopy, but I also am working on bringing specialists from elsewhere in the system – neurologists, urologists, gynecologists, GI – who will hold clinics one or two days a week in Highlands. We are also renovating a virtual care room so remote diagnostics and video can be used. The world is changing in a way that makes physical proximity less

• WORD MATTER •

The Futility of Asking Why

Tammi Jo Shults and Jennifer Riordan did not know one another. Upon awakening, neither even considered asking themselves why things might turn out the way they did. The next several hours didn't enter their minds. Why would it? It was only a matter of arbitrary happenstance they found themselves in the same place at the same moment in time on the morning of April 17, 2018.

Bud Katz

opened, both the bad and the good. The window next to Jennifer's seat was shattered by that small piece of shrapnel and she was pulled through the opening. Some brave, quick-acting passengers pulled her back and performed CPR but it was too late.

Tammi Jo calmed the passengers, righted the aircraft and brought the plane down safely at Philadelphia International Airport. She didn't know, at that moment, one life had been lost.

In the days immediately following this unthinkable tragedy, Tammi Jo Shults was rightfully hailed as a hero for her cool demeanor and professional actions following the engine explosion.

Jennifer Riordan's life has been celebrated as well. By all accounts, she was a wonderful person, wife and mother, and a successful executive with a devout and philanthropic heart.

The precise causes of the engine failure will not be known for some time. Southwest Airlines and the NTSB will perform due diligence and will arrive at conclusions as to what happened and why. Blame or responsibility will be assigned. Compensation will follow. Some already has. New maintenance and inspection protocols will be put into place. Some already have.

In the wake of this truly unfortunate event, along with recent revelations regarding a history of safety issues on Allegiant Air as reported by 60 Minutes, we, the bystanders and onlookers in all this, will begin to ask many questions. Will we seek or select window seats on future flights? Will we demand aircraft safety and maintenance information before boarding? Will we even choose air travel unless it's absolutely necessary? These are considerations we as individuals must decide for ourselves.

Some will relegate the events surrounding Jennifer Riordan's tragic death to "God's will." Others will chalk it up to "bad luck," or "unfortunate random happenstance." "It was her time," they'll say. "Stuff happens," they'll say.

But two things are already certain. Michael Riordan, Jennifer's husband, and Joshua and Averie, their children, along with Jennifer's family, friends, and co-workers, will mourn and grieve an unfathomable loss they will never fully comprehend. They'll ask why.

Southwest Airlines flight 1380 left LaGuardia Airport in New York at 10:37 that Tuesday morning. Tammi Jo was in the captain's seat inside the cockpit. Jennifer Riordan was a passenger in a window seat, in a row over the left wing of the aircraft. She was wearing her seatbelt. She was one of 149 souls, including Tammi Jo, fully expecting to arrive safely at Dallas's Love Field.

Tammi Jo and Jennifer had several things in common. Both were middle aged, successful, professional women. Both were married. Each had two children. Both were in New York City for work.

Both were women of strong faith. Tammi Jo teaches Sunday school. She, her husband and their children live in Boerne, Texas. Jennifer attended Christ the King Elementary School, and was married to her husband, Michael, at Christ the King Church, in Burlington, Vermont.

Jennifer, 46, lived with Michael and their two children in Albuquerque, New Mexico. Tammi Jo, 55, grew up on a ranch, in New Mexico.

The CFM-56-7B engines on many Southwest Airlines Boeing 737s were manufactured by CFM, a company born of a relationship between General Electric and France's Safran SA. These are reliable but complex pieces of machinery. There's an engine on each of the 737's two wings. Each engine contains 24 individual fan blades.

Approximately 21 minutes into the flight, the engine on the left wing failed, and then exploded. A small piece of one of the fan blades crashed into and through one of the porthole windows through which passengers often gaze at clouds, or the cities, or the farmland below.

Jennifer Riordan was seated next to that particular window.

The Joy of having Royal Critter Sitters

Now that the Royal Parents are retired, they travel much more than they used too, and in my opinion, all too often without me. That's why my Royal Court contains more than one Critter Sitter. Miss Beverly is the Royal Critter Sitter in Charge. She earned that distinction when she kept me one summer for almost two weeks while my parents went on a river cruise, and I rate her home a five-star pet resort for its location and amenities. She lives in an area with lots of parks, a town square and a downtown area where shops put out water bowls for us dogs. I get to meet lots of people and their canine companions on our walks.

I am completely miserable in the extreme summer heat, so Miss Beverly took me on early morning walks before the temps were unbearable. Then she let me nap in the cool, dark living room with two fans blowing on me. I must say the Royal Parents could learn a thing or two from Miss Beverly. Only after the temps cooled down in the evening, did she, or sometimes her daughter SarahAnne take me on a second walk. Between the two of them, I regularly got two long walks a day. Why SarahAnne even taught me tricks. That's one reason I dubbed her Camp Counselor SarahAnne.

Since she's graduated from Nursing school, SarahAnne's kept me a few times at her house. I'd say she's easily in the running to become Royal Critter Sitter in Charge should Miss Beverly wish to retire. With roommates coming and going, a boyfriend who's in and out with his dog, and out of town friends who visit, there's always plenty of action at her house.

Possibly the best-ever time I've had with her was the weekend her college friend

Lord Banjo the Royal Pooch

Grace visited with Max, the golden retriever. Nurse SarahAnne lives in a dog-friendly walkable part of town too, so we had lots of adventures.

One afternoon, we walked and barhopped along the Beltline in Atlanta with Max and Grace. The Beltline is a very happening place with dogs, joggers, skaters, and cyclists. While she ran errands another afternoon, she dropped me off at her boyfriends' house, and—don't tell Mum—he let me sleep in his bed while he worked. Mum has this thing about me getting on the bed, you know. Goodness knows, I needed some rest after trying to keep up with all these millennials, who are way more active than the Royal Parents.

I was fired up when we spent our final day at the park. There, SarahAnne let me go in the pond and roll in the sand, over and over again. Max wasn't keen to go in the water, but I sure was. I like ponds and lakes any time but especially when it hits the 80s. I even got to chase some ducks. I slept like a baby that night and was fine with being left behind while the girls went partying. Yes, Nurse SarahAnne has turned into one fine Royal Critter Sitter.

I know I'm one lucky dog to have not only loving Royal Parents—though I do think they travel overly much—but also attentive and caring Royal Critter Sitters. What more could a Royal Pooch ask?

Lord Banjo lives in Georgia with his Mum, Kathy Manos Penn. Find similar stories in his book, "Lord Banjo the Royal Pooch," available locally at the Molly Grace in Highland, Books Unlimited in Franklin, and on Amazon. Contact him at inkpenn119@gmail.com.

important," she said.

Paulus said people have nothing to fear with HCA in the mix.

"They can buy every single thing cheaper than Mission can, so we are hoping they will be able to cross over that finish line and make a profit rather than lose money," he said. "In addition, HCA has been the leading clinical trial enroller in its cancer program for more than 75% of the new FDA approved cancer drugs in the last 10 years. Cancer care will be one of the areas of biggest change that will now be available with HCA that doesn't exist in Western North Carolina."

He said the fact that it's a for-profit enterprise won't affect how charity cases are dealt with; in fact, he said HCA's charity policy is more generous than Mission's.

"We both offer free care up to 200% of the federal poverty line but whereas our sliding scale is to 300% theirs is to 400%," he said.

As to HCA buying and then closing the H-C Hospital, Medland and Paulus said that isn't an option. In the Letter of Intent there are protections outlined and there are to be no "take-aways," said Medland.

"Under the contract, even if they wanted to close, they can't. They would have to put it up for sale, and then if they can't find anyone, they would have to offer it to the new super foundation," said Paulus.

He said there is an operator "not too far from here" who would love to buy H-C Hospital and close it to force the movement of patients to their other facility.

"The merger with HCA, will ensure Mission's sustainability into the future," said Medland. "The mega foundation will be the largest foundation per capita in the nation. After five years, if we hold up to performance standards – financially, quality- and safety-wise, and EMS – then Highlands-Cashiers Hospital is likely to be secure for the next 10 years."

She said H-C Hospital is a Critical Access Hospital and it's where many hospitals are headed now offering ER, diagnostics and primary care, and that's not going to change.

"It was never meant to be a full-service facility. It wouldn't be used enough to keep it alive and vibrant," she said.

As to the name, she said that won't change either. The words may be rearranged but H-C Hospital will still be in the mix.

ported the effort; the Mountain Garden Club, the Rotary Club and Interact and the Methodist Men. Reeves Hardware donated materials for the pickup sticks used by volunteers.

I also want to give a shout-out to Franklin volunteers who did their pickup at the same time. Both volunteer groups met at the Gorge Falls, so U.S. 64 west was covered from Franklin to Highlands. What a wonderful cooperative effort!

The pick-up ended with a picnic in

Mix and Match: Update Your Home With 2018 Design Trends

(StatePoint) Are you planning to refresh your home but aren't sure where to start? Some of today's most popular design trends encourage mixing and matching favorite home accents within the same space.

There is no need to feel limited by fixtures or finishes, according to design expert, Colleen Visage, who is Progress Lighting's vice president of Product Management.

"Homeowners today are not content to have the same look, the same finishes or the same collections throughout the house," says Visage. "They really want to personalize their spaces."

Coordinating complementary pieces creates a cohesive feel to the home. It can also reinforce a unique style because the ultimate outcome is a custom design. Here are a few ways to master the mix and match trend.

• Mix Monochromatic Accents: Tone-on-tone designs are very popular in kitchens, bathrooms, entryways and living areas. Countertops, cabinets and home accents in varying shades of grays and creams can create a sophisticated statement. These tones pair perfectly with gold, brass or brushed nickel finishes.

• Design with Dual Tones: Mixed metals or dual tones are on-trend and very popular in home design today. This look can be achieved through mixing fixtures with different, but complementary finishes. For example, Progress Lighting offers fixtures that feature finishes with contrasting accents, such as antique bronze and brass, antique bronze and natural brass or polished nickel with silver ridge -- adding visual interest.

• Pendant Groupings:

Pendant groupings are commonly used in a foyer, over a kitchen island or above a dining room table. These versatile fixtures can be mixed and matched to create a custom cluster design for a statement-making look.

"I like to design areas that are so inviting, people don't want to leave," says Susan Wilson, designer and founder of Susan Wilson Interiors. "When a home features accents and lighting that work together seamlessly, it makes the spaces throughout memorable and relatable."

How Much Home Can You Afford this Spring? Factors to Consider (StatePoint) The chicken or the egg? Which came first continues to fuel philosophical debates. But when it comes to buying a home, experts are pretty clear about the proper order of things -- agreeing you should fit your mortgage to your finances, not to a house.

"Before you even start your search for a home this spring, it's crucial to know how much you can afford to pay each month," says Freddie Mac Senior Vice President, Christina Boyle, who stresses that there are a few important things to keep in mind as you calculate this figure.

Start by getting a handle on your finances. What do you earn? What do you spend? How much do you have in savings? Answering these questions will help you better understand how much home you can afford. Make a budget and use free online tools and calculators to determine how much you can afford.

Remember that your monthly expenses go beyond mortgage payments, so leave some room in your budget. Whether it's a new roof or a leaking faucet, homeownership can mean unexpected expenses. Be prepared to pay for such items, as needed. General maintenance, combined with utilities (an expense that can vary by home depending on its size and other factors), are added expenses to consider. Some neighborhoods also have homeowners' association fees to cover the cost of upkeep of common spaces.

Your lifestyle can also help you assess whether a particular home is right for you and your budget. Location is key in determining what you can afford. Some points to consider are whether you want to live in a suburban or urban setting, whether you need to be near specific schools and public transportation, and the potential length of your commute. These factors can affect the cost of a home and you should determine your priorities in advance of home and mortgage hunting.

Remember, getting

SPIRITUALLY SPEAKING.

I Don't Care Anymore

Pastor Dr. Mark Ford
First Baptist Church
Highlands

A blog by Karl Vaters spoke to me a couple of years ago and has stuck with me. I want to share a couple of his "I don't care's" and add a couple of my own. What I am saying here is that I too have become "passionately apathetic" about some things that seem to matter a lot to others. More to the point, I am apathetic about these issues, but passionate enough to let you know I am apathetic about them and inviting you to join me in not caring anymore. I don't know if it's my age of forty-four years or being in the ministry that's created this indifference, but here they are. And by the way, I think it is probably church insiders that care about these issues, but the outsiders could often care less. They are looking for something more substantial and real.

First, I don't care about how big a church is – yours or mine. Now understand, I use to care. I worked hard to build the churches I was pastor of, and often succeeded. But I spent a lot of time and emotional energy when things didn't go quite as planned or too slow. Not anymore! I have discovered that big churches are not better than small ones, or vice versa. God uses all HIS churches no matter the size. Size of individual churches is not His concern – just the size of His Church universal!

Second, I don't care about denominational or cultural differences. When I was doing my doctoral work at Princeton, I studied the sociological and cultural challenges facing the modern church and did so under some of the greatest thinkers in this subject. I stressed over our relevance and how to better engage the world at large, and who was doing the best job. Worship styles and traditions were often at the forefront of discussions. But I don't care anymore. If you worship Jesus as the Son of God, honor the Scriptures as the inspired Word of God and all its teachings, love God, and love people enough to care about their souls and well-being, that's all that matters. If your church uses candles, light them. If you raise your hands in worship, lift them. If you like contemporary worship, turn up the volume (but just a little). If you like quiet contemplative prayer, dim the lights. I'm a Baptist who likes Gregorian chant. Baptists should worship like Baptists, Pentecostals like the church on Pentecost, Lutherans like Luther, Reformed as the children of the Reformation, and the Methodists methodically (just kidding my Methodist friends)! Worship Christ your way and I will mine. Respect me and I will respect you if we worship the Lord Jesus of the Scriptures. If we fail in this, I will leave it up to Jesus as judge.

Third, I don't care about how people dress for church – within reason. Wear a suit and tie, a dress, jeans, kilts, short sleeves, long sleeve, tucked in or untucked. Dress suitably for your culture and times if being in style is important to you. I just hope we never go back to leisure suits! But please, cover what needs to be covered, drop the bling, and keep it modest. Dressing out of pride or rebellion or being stylish can be immodest. Let the shows on the runway stay there but keep these out of the church. If you are old school, stop mourning that we have lowered our standards just because they don't wear suits and have their shirts untucked. And if you are casual and new school, quit telling the old-school folks they need to wear skinny jeans to reach our culture. You would not want to see me in skinny jeans! Personally, I hope they go the way of the leisure suit!

Fourth, I don't care anymore about being immersed in PC or Mac, social media, tweeting, blogs, web sites, being up to date in technology, smart phones or dumb phones! I have a smart phone, but it is far smarter than I am. These things have their place and are a part of our real world today, but I also believe they can be a serious problem if not utilized properly and in a reserved manner. Multiplied studies are revealing the social and mental detriments that these are incurring for all generations.

But allow me to say what I do care about. As Christians, we don't live in a sanitized world. Because of this, our Lord has called His Church to holiness, grace, love and compassion for a lost and hurting world. As salt, He has called us to make a difference in a decaying and contentious environment. But we can't if we choose to remain in our Christian subculture bubbles, hidden away and "caring" about the wrong things. Our society could use the light we are called to be to bring hope and love to a dark world without much of either. The world could use the illumination of our presence and help, our message of hope in Christ, and less of the irritations of our infightings and debates about relevance and particularities. The world needs Christ, and you and I must be prepared and engaged to share His Word in an intelligent and caring way. Now that's what I care about!

Why couldn't she have been seated one row back or one row forward or across the aisle?

And, while 148 people did return home, safe and sound, to the comfort of family and home, heroic pilot Tammi Jo Shults will be haunted by the name of the one passenger who didn't make it home.

Her name was Jennifer Riordan.

VOTE FOR JIM TATE

District 1 Macon County Commissioner

Please Vote in the Republican Primary
Tuesday, May 8th 2018

Thank you for your support!

Jim, Allison, Ethan, Eliza

My beliefs are simple and to the point:

- 1) Fiscal Responsibility: Let's continue to live within our means financially and continue to run our government efficiently.
- 2) Education: Let's provide our children with the facilities and tools to be successful.
- 3) Heritage: Let's protect our natural and cultural heritage so that future generations can have the same opportunities we enjoy.
- 4) Safety: Let's keep our communities safe so that we can pursue our lives, liberty and happiness without fear.
- 5) Taxes: Let's continue to keep our taxes among the lowest in the state.
- 6) Buisness: Let's keep Macon County business friendly by providing the necessary infrastructure to support economic growth.
- 7) Civil Discourse: Let's solve our problems through open and respectful conversations.
