Electric Fund – the mid-year review presented at the annual Town Board retreat March 8 revealed a very healthy bottom line for Highlands.

Highlands School students help feed the hungry

The Highlands Middle and High School SGA, Interact, Beta Club and FCA with the help of students and their families in elementary, middle and high school collected items for the area's local food pantries. The three pantries contacted were The International Friendship Center's Food Pantry at the Highlands United Methodist Church, the Highlands Emergency Council and Fishes and Loaves in Cashiers. The food drive ran from March 5-16. This week, Penny Wars began and the money collected from Penny Wars will be divided between the three local pantries. All three food pantries are MANNA food banks. The Food Pantry is located on the lower level of the Highlands United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall on the Spring Street side. Distribution of food is on Mondays from 3:15-5:30 p.m. In 2017, 70 families were served. The Emergency Council is on Poplar Street. In 2017 it served 96 families. The Loaves and Fishes food bank is on Frank Allen Road in Cashiers behind the Cashiers Fire Department. It is staffed each Monday and Thursday from 4:30-6:30 p.m. It serves upward of 2,000 families each year.

Sheriffs, superintendents weigh in on arming volunteers in schools

In 2013, North Carolina legislators passed a law that would allow non-deputized law enforcement officers or former military to serve as armed guards for schools. The law, which was passed in response to the Sandy Hook tragedy, would allow armed, trained volunteers to provide extra security at schools, but they'd have to meet specific qualifications.

According to the law, volunteers would be heavily vetted and need to meet a strict set of criteria. For example, they must have experience as a sworn law enforcement officer, or as a military police officer with at least two years experience. If a person is no longer with the armed services, they must have had an honorable discharge.

Just a week after the school shooting in Parkland, FL, one North Carolina sheriff was supported by members of the NC legislative body, including Speaker of the House Tim Moore, at a press conference announcing his intent to develop such a program.

Rockingham County Sheriff Sam Page, along with the Rockingham County Schools Superintendent Dr. Rodney Shotwell want to start the program this fall.

In Western North Carolina, school superintendents in both Macon and Jackson counties said the possibility of such a program locally would be left up to the respective sheriffs.

"We are open to hearing suggestions regarding volunteers in our schools and we encourage you to contact Sheriff Chip Hall to discuss details," said Jackson County Schools Superintendent Kim Elliot. "The sheriff and his department have worked closely with our schools to ensure safety and we are extremely appreciative of our collaborative work."

Macon County Schools Superintendent Dr. Chris Baldwin said that he is familiar with the law but would leave such a decision up to Sheriff Robert Holland.

"I am aware of the legislation

Road paving, dogs, Duke and more

The March Highlands Town Board meeting is tonight at the Highlands Community Building next to the ball field. It begins a 7pm with the public comment period being as always, the first item on the agenda.

There will be several important items up for approval. At the town retreat a draft dog ordinance was presented. The ordinance has a civil fine of $250 for not properly removing dog waste from public and town property, including Founders Park. Another part of the proposed ordinance would require dogs to be on leash in all areas zoned for business or governmental property such as parks and recreational areas. The only exception would be The Greenway where dog owners would be required to maintain control of their animals.

Our Public Works Director and Town Engineer, Lamar Nix, will report on two proposed road projects. At the town retreat, Lamar presented four options to pave Sunset Rock Road. All options were expensive, and there was no certainty the paved road surface would last. Some commissioners thought there were other paving projects that had higher priority. Lamar will also present a plan not to pave the road and to keep it a pedestrian venue. He will also provide his assessment of paving Arnold Road.

The Hudson Library will be hosting the Community Coffee with the Mayor tomorrow at 11 pm. My guest will be Town Manager Josh Ward. He will talk about the development of the town budget and other town matters. As always, questions and ideas are welcomed.

Saturday, April 21 is the Highlands Plateau Cleanup. It is sponsored by the Highlands Chamber of Commerce with support from the US Forest Service and the Town of Highlands. Volunteers are encouraged to call the Chamber at 526-2112 in advance to sign up. Beverly Wichman, the chamber coordinator will need a volunteer count prior to the event. The cleanup begins at the Highlands Chamber of Commerce at 10 am. Volunteers should begin arriving around 9:30 to get their assignments and equipment. Lunch will be served at Cliffside Recreational Area at noon for all the weary volunteers.

Let me share an update concerning Duke coal fees from our consultant, Kevin O'Donnell.

He projects Duke will receive about 90% of the coal ash costs they requested from the North Carolina Utilities Commission. It can only be viewed as a big win for est Proposal. Immediate action is required. The USFS requires that comments "should be within the scope of the proposed action, have a direct relationship to the proposed action, and must include supporting reasons for the responsible official to consider". Please send comments to: comments-southern-north-carolina-nantahala-nantahala@fs.fed.us. Talking points are listed below:

1. Old Growth Forests to be logged. Almost 60% of the 317 acres proposed for timber harvesting has trees 100 years and up to 200 years old. These forests are rare ecosystems rich in biological diversity. Once cut they will be managed for timber production. Only one half of one percent of our original old growth forests remain. The given reason for cutting this old growth is to create "early successional habitat" for certain species. This can be accomplished by cutting younger stands in less sensitive areas. The proposal includes cutting old growth on Brushy Mountain and at Granite City. Ask the forest service to not cut old growth at Brushy Mountain and Granite City, and in stands 41/42, 41/44, 41/40 41/47, 40/42, 40/13, and 29/16 that are over 100 years old.

2. Massive amounts of herbicides will be used to select only species for commercial timber harvesting. Other native species like dogwoods and redbud will be eliminated. The World Health Organization says glyphosate is "probably cancer causing." These chemicals persist in the environment for a significant time period. Access roads will be managed with herbicides as well and this is significant acreage.

3. Timber sales are likely to occur at a loss, costing taxpayers money. The proposal does not disclose and include the cost for road building, administrating and planning sales, burning, and herbiciding. Roads cost $50-70,000 per mile to build and the expense of maintaining them.

Please send your comments in opposition to the proposed Southside Timber Project by midnight Monday. And spread the word – The more comments, the better!

up and expenditures are where they are supposed to be.

"As of February 2018, property tax collections have increased $22,984.06 compared to February 2017 which represents a collection rate of 96.703%," said Ward. "Sales tax revenue as of February 2018 has increased $7,230.73 compared to February 2017; Franchise Tax revenue as of February 2018 is $6,375.70 which is more than in February 2017; and General Fund revenues collected as of February 2018, (not including $261,946.39 in donations for Police & Recreation projects) is $355,425.34 more compared to General Fund revenues collected as of February 2017."

Ward and Shuler said they anticipate meeting all budgeted utility fund revenues with expenditures holding below the required 66.6% range.

"All utility funds should be at or below 66.6% spent as of February 2018. Water is at 35%, Sewer is at 67%, Sanitation is at 65% and Electric is at 41% spent as of February 2018," they said.

On July 1, 2017, the beginning of 2017-'18 budget year, the Town made a general fund balance appropriation of $703,439. As of February 2018, the appropriation was increased an additional $513,350, which has left $271,713.60 in the General Fund.

"Budgeted General Fund expenditures are 70% spent," said Shuler.

In public sector accounting, the primary or catchall fund of a government, is the General Fund. It is similar to a firm's general ledger account and records all assets and liabilities of the entity that are not assigned to a special-purpose fund. It provides the resources necessary to sustain the day-to-day activities and thus pays for all administrative and operating expenses.

Aside from the taxes and fees that fund the town's General Fund, the town of Highlands relies on its Enterprise Funds – electric, water, sewer and sanitation – for income.

Whereas the fees levied for water, sewer and sanitation are priced to basically ensure those departments break-even – it's a different story for the Electric Fund.

The Electric Fund has always been healthy and helps sustain the town. Money in the fund is routinely transferred to the General Fund, and the other Enterprise Funds as needed – usually for capital expenses regarding repairs and upgrades.

For 2017-'18, $4,950,000 in revenues was budgeted for the Electric Department – 78% or $3,816,490.40 has been allocated so far with expenditures at just 41%.

Highlands buys its electricity from Duke Power at a wholesale rate and then sells it back to the residents of Highlands.

Now that the NC Utilities Commission has ruled in Duke's favor, the town has to include Duke's coal ash recovery fees on utility bills. It's an extra $4.42 for residential users and $15.46 for commercial users per month. These items are listed as a different line item on the bills so customers know it's Duke charging them not Highlands.

To date, Highlands has paid $16,585.31 for Duke's Coal Ash expenses.

People have long complained that Highlands utility bills are higher than anywhere else. As it turns out that's not exactly true, but what is true is the town's 950+ residents – and the full-time ones at that – are shouldering the Electric Fund which basically keeps Highlands running so well.

The electric rate for residential service in Highlands is $20.31 for the basic charge and .1146 per Kwh.

The basic charge for Duke residential customers in the county outside the town limits is $11.80 and .0934 per Kwh.

The basic charge for Haywood Electric is $25 and .012 per Kwh.

Highlands falls right in the middle of the rate structure and to be fair, it's the money collected for the Electric Fund that has made Highlands a first-rate mountain town.

Highlands boasts top-notch infrastructure including up-to-date water and sewer facilities and an electric grid all of which ensure clean, reliable delivery.

Infrastructure also includes its roadways, sidewalks, parks and recreation facilities, arts facilities, street lighting – everything that makes Highlands a place people want to visit or call home.

With Duke already proclaiming the need for a rate hike – 15%-16% for their residential users in the county – it's likely even Highlands wholesale rates will continue to rise.

But is relying on Highlands Electric Fund as a bank for all Highlands' needs sustainable – especially when it rests on the backs of so few?

Currently, many seasonal in-town residents close their houses for the winter or lower the thermostat to 50-55 degrees but still the Electric Fund must be fed.

Though it wasn't discussed at the retreat, that is on the minds of the mayor and commissioners.

One suggestion was to discount the electric rates during peak times.

Another is to raise the money Highlands needs through a room tax. After all, Highlands infrastructure needs grow with increased tourist traffic.

Currently, the Chamber of Commerce gets the 3% room tax proceeds – about $600,000 a year. However, most tourist communities levy a much higher room tax, upwards of 10%. Mayor Pat Taylor and other municipal leaders in the state are hoping for legislative help on that matter.

Another way to take the pressure off the Electric Fund would be a tax increase – an increase full-time and seasonal in-town residents would shoulder equally.

The town's current property rate is .164 per $100 valuation with .015 (1 ½ cents) of that going solely for recreation.

"At current property values, the town gets roughly $170,000 for each cent levied. The 1 1/2 cent for the recreation nets roughly $250,000," said Ward.

Currently, owners of a home valued at $250,000 pay $410 in property tax per year.

If the town increased its tax rate by one penny to .174, owners of a home valued at $250,000 would pay $435.

If the town increased its tax rate by two cents to .184, owners of a home valued at $250,000 would pay $460.

Just two cents would net the town roughly $340,000, which could lessen the need to continually raise electric rates at Duke's bidding.

In addition, a couple of cents tax hike, which is basically paid once a year, would ultimately be less than the ever-present, monthly, rising electric bills.

The mayor and at least one commissioner are up for discussing various options, realizing something's got to give.

• REFLECTIONS FROM LORD BANJO •

Introducing our newest columnist

I have a huge announcement, huge I tell you. While I've occasionally written columns for Mum when she's busy, I was beyond excited when the editor of the Highlands Newspaper asked me to write columns on a regular basis. Hear ye, hear ye, Lord Banjo is now officially a columnist. Yes, you read it here first.

Mum will continue to write "The Ink Penn," and I'll write "Dogspeak: Reflections from Lord Banjo" on alternate weeks. I'll let you be the judge of whose writing is more interesting. Since Mum was once an English teacher, and I learned at her feet, so to speak, I'd say we're both fairly erudite. Whose columns you prefer may depend more on the topics than the style.

Mum will graciously help with my columns, as my paws are too big for the keyboard. That means she'll take dictation, type, and, submit my work. She's also in charge of negotiating my fee. Since we live in Georgia and our editor lives in North Carolina, I can't request payment in belly rubs, as I usually do, and I don't think Mum would accept shipments of the table scraps I crave even if our editor agreed. I may have to settle for boxes of Itty Bitty Biscuits, the only treats allowed on my very strict maintenance diet.

You'll understand about my diet, If you've read my book, and if you haven't, I must ask, "Why not?" It's available on Amazon.

Anyway, the short version of the diet story is that I lost ten pounds on a starvation diet, prescribed and supervised by the Royal Physician, and I've managed to keep the weight off for over a year. It hasn't been hard to keep off, as the Royal Parents are very careful about what they feed me and very, very vigilant about keeping me away from the cat's wet food.

Will you think less of me if I confess that I chuckle to myself when I hear my parents moan about their winter weight gain? Did you know dogs could chuckle?

You'd chuckle too if you heard my dad complain about his weight, walk me twice a day in an attempt to lose a pound or two, and then ask Mum where she hid the chocolate. He is incorrigible when it comes to chocolate or any sweet for that matter. Snickers and peanut M&Ms are his favorites, and Mum doesn't allow those in the house.

Mum's downfall seems to be cheese and crackers and perhaps the tasty soups and stews she cooks when it's cold outside. Maybe if the Royal Parents stuck to a daily ration of two cups of dry food, supplemented with a dental chewie and a few Itty Bitty Biscuits, they wouldn't have this problem. Can you see why I have not much sympathy for their plight?

Suffice it to say that someone in the Penn household is always on a diet, and from time to time, someone manages to lose a few pounds. The Royal Pooch, so far, is the champ at keeping the pounds off.

Surely, the Penns aren't the only ones fighting winter weight gain. With Easter baskets on the horizon, will you succumb to the temptation of chocolate rabbits or will you start a diet because warm weather is just around the corner? Food for thought?

and program in Rockingham County," said Dr. Baldwin. "This statute provides the local Sheriff's Department with another option for securing schools. Our current SRO program is the best in the state, in my opinion. I support Sheriff Holland's decision regarding how to best utilize the authority granted him by this statute."

On Tuesday morning, Sheriff Robert Holland was in route to Raleigh to attend a meeting on School Safety organized by North Carolina House Speaker Tim Moore. Moore appointed the bipartisan House Select Committee on School Safety following the Florida shooting. Sheriff Holland was invited to attend the meeting in Raleigh and to share his expertise on the issue. Sheriff Holland said the possibility of establishing volunteer programs allowed under the law would likely be a topic of discussion at the meeting.

From a local perspective, Sheriff Holland said he hasn't ruled out the possibility, but would want to evaluate a program closely.

"I will research this legislation and see what options we actually have for in the future but I will never allow our standards at the MCSO to be lowered in an effort to escape our financial responsibilities," said Sheriff Holland. "I, along with our county leaders, have proven through the years our commitment to supporting safer and more secure schools and it's a continuous and ever changing process. Our commissioners, school board and school superintendent are unified in this endeavor with us. School safety remains a priority for us all and I will continue to be personally involved in making sure only the best qualified candidates for employment are given the opportunity to serve as School Resource Officers to protect our most precious and most vulnerable citizens."

Holland said not just any certified law enforcement officer can be an SRO.

"It takes a special kind of officer to be able to hold that title and accept the responsibilities that come with it," he said. "I have many great officers in my department but only a select few have what it takes to take on this task."

He said each Macon County Sheriff's Office SRO personally asked for the position and willingly accepted the responsibility that came with it.

"It's far more difficult of a job than most people truly understand or appreciate. I am extremely proud of each of them and the important service they provide to our community," said Holland. "As parents we depend on them to do whatever it takes to protect our children and I'm grateful for what they are doing daily to stay on the top of their game."

Some counties like Rockingham County and school districts don't have a School Resource Officer in every school, which is one of the selling points of the volunteer program. Macon County, however, has funded an SRO for every school in the district.

Full context of the law:

G.S. 162-26 reads:

(a) The sheriff may establish a volunteer school safety resource officer program to provide nonsalaried special deputies to serve as school safety resource officers in public schools. To be a volunteer in the program, a person must have prior experience as either (i) a sworn law enforcement officer or (ii) a military police officer with a minimum of two years' service. If a person with experience as a military police officer is no longer in the armed services, the person must also have an honorable discharge. A program volunteer must receive training on research into the social and cognitive development of elementary, middle, and high school children and must also meet the selection standards and any additional criteria established by the sheriff.

(b) Each volunteer shall report to the sheriff and shall work under the direction and supervision of the sheriff or the sheriff's designee when carrying out the volunteer's duties as a school safety resource officer. No volunteer may be assigned to a school as a school safety resource officer until the volunteer has updated or renewed the volunteer's law enforcement training and has been certified by the North Carolina Sheriff's Education and Training Standards Commission as meeting the educational and firearms proficiency standards required of persons serving as special deputy sheriffs. A volunteer is not required to meet the physical standards required by the North Carolina Sheriff's Education and Training Standards Commission but must have a standard medical exam to ensure the volunteer is in good health. A person selected by the sheriff to serve as a volunteer under this section shall have the power of arrest while performing official duties as a volunteer school safety resource officer.

(c) The sheriff may enter into an agreement with the local board of education to provide volunteer school safety resource officers who meet both the criteria established by this section and the selection and training requirements set by the sheriff of the county for the schools. The sheriff shall be responsible for the assignment of any volunteer school safety resource officer assigned to a public school and for the supervision of the officer.

(d) There shall be no liability on the part of and no cause of action shall arise against a volunteer school safety resource officer, the Sheriff or employees of the sheriff supervising a volunteer school safety officer, or the public school system or its employees for any good-faith action taken by them in the performance of their duties with regard to the volunteer school safety resource officer program established pursuant to this section. ## A future in the Highlands-Cashiers area is in our sights

By Steve Heatherly
CEO, Harris Regional Hospital

Harris Regional Hospital and Swain Community Hospital have been serving our mountain communities for more than 160 years. We are honored to provide primary care, emergency care, and dozens of subspecialties including orthopaedics, cardiology, surgery, and women's and children's care, in addition to ancillary services such as physical therapy and sports medicine, high-tech imaging, oncology services, pain management, and wound care. Both hospitals became part of Duke LifePoint Healthcare in 2014, joining in western North Carolina Haywood Regional Medical Center, Rutherford Regional Health System, and Frye Regional Medical Center.

Harris Regional Hospital is not in active dialogue with any regional partner regarding a purchase of Highlands-Cashiers Hospital. A number of conditions, including mutual interest among regional partners, must exist for such activity to occur. Additionally, Harris is not in the process of obtaining land to build a facility in southern Jackson and Macon counties.

Harris Regional Hospital, positioned geographically as a hub for healthcare, is committed to improving access to care for the communities we serve in Jackson, Macon, Swain and Graham counties and the surrounding area. We are pleased to provide a breadth of services, new state-of-the-art technology, and a focus on the patient experience delivered in a high-quality, safe environment closer to our communities than Asheville, Greenville, Charlotte, or Atlanta.

Our approach to evaluating regional needs has included multiple community forums across the region characterized by open discussion and conversation, and meetings with individuals and community leaders. The purpose of these conversations is to understand how our hospitals and physician practices can serve the needs of the community to a greater degree than what is available now.

In the Highlands-Cashiers communities specifically, we recently shared at one of the forums that Harris Regional Hospital will likely have a local presence within the year pursuant to the organization's strategic planning process. The form of that presence is yet to be determined and under any circumstance would be incremental in nature.

Recent expansions within women's and children's care have occurred in Macon County as part of Harris Regional Hospital's strategic growth plan and through our response to changing market conditions. Similarly, in Graham County there are evolving needs we believe our hospitals can help address. In all cases we will seek to conduct such discussions thoughtfully and respectfully with local stakeholders and our regional partners, beginning with education on what is currently available and conversation about what can occur. We are excited to work together in delivering on our mission of Making Communities Healthier by creating places people want to come for care, physicians want to practice and employees want to work.

North Carolina Community Foundation announces new statewide fund to support local nonprofit news

The Democracy Fund establishes the North Carolina Local News Lab Fund to support the future of local news

The North Carolina Community Foundation announces that a group of local and national funders has established the North Carolina Local News Lab Fund with NCCF to support the future of local news.

The North Carolina Local News Lab Fund will invest in organizations that are working to ensure people and communities have access to the news and information they need. The Fund is currently accepting applications from nonprofit news organizations and news providers; other types of information providers such as libraries and community centers; and storytellers that provide news and information such as documentarians, youth media and organizations that work on community engagement.

To learn more and apply, visit <http://bit.ly/NCFUND>. Applications will be accepted until March 30 at 5 p.m.

"Local news is critical to a healthy democracy, and we believe that the future of local news is local," said Teresa Gorman, local news associate with the Public Square Program at the Democracy Fund. "This simple idea has shaped the way the Democracy Fund has thought about its work to support and strengthen the public square in America."

The Fund is the start of a new multi-year commitment to the state from the Democracy Fund, which is working together with local funders and stakeholders to build the Fund. Opening with an initial investment of $720,000, the Fund will be housed at the North Carolina Community Foundation and will be managed by an advisory group made up of local stakeholders and the Democracy Fund. Local partners on the advisory board include representatives from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation, Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation, Prentice Foundation and the A.J. Fletcher Foundation.

The Democracy Fund also launched a sister fund in New Jersey, the New Jersey Local News Lab Fund, in partnership with the Community Foundation of New Jersey.

About the North Carolina Community Foundation

The NCCF is the single statewide community foundation serving North Carolina and has administered more than $130 million in grants since its inception in 1988. With nearly $247 million in assets, NCCF sustains 1,200 endowments established to provide long-term support of a broad range of community needs, nonprofit organizations, institutions and scholarships. The NCCF partners with a network of affiliate foundations to provide local resource allocation and community assistance across the state. An important component of NCCF's mission is to ensure that rural philanthropy has a voice at local, regional and national levels.

For more information, visit nccommunityfoundation.org, like us on Facebook and follow us on LinkedIn and Twitter @NCCF.

About the Democracy Fund

The Democracy Fund is a bipartisan foundation created by eBay founder and philanthropist Pierre Omidyar to help ensure that our political system can withstand new challenges and deliver on its promise to the American people. Since 2011, Democracy Fund has invested more than $70 million in support of a healthy democracy, including modern elections, effective governance, and a vibrant public square. ## To Forgive, Divine

By Champlain Margaret Howell
Holy Family Lutheran Church/ELCA

There is a story about a minister who delivered a sermon based on the timeless story of the Prodigal Son. When he got to the point where the father sees his son returning and races out to meet him, the minister said "Throwing wide his arms, the father said ..." at which point my younger son leaned over to me and whispered, "YOU'RE GROUNDED!" (Homiletics, March 14 2010)

The gospel lesson is perhaps one of the most beloved of all of Jesus' parables. It is as multi-faceted as a well-cut diamond, revealing the truths about Failure, love, sin, forgiveness, resentment, regret, jealousy, grace---the list goes on and on.

I found some wonderful observations on this parable from some expected and unexpected sources. I'd like to share some of them with you.

Regrets:

The Prodigal Son got a huge case of the regrets after he squandered his inheritance.

So can regret be a helpful emotion?

Henry David Thoreau in his Journals, says that we should "make the most of your regrets. ... To regret deeply is to live afresh."

Resentment:

Henri Nouwen, From Fear to Love: Lenten Reflections on the Parable of the Prodigal Son, wrote, "Did you ever notice how lost you are when you are resentful? It's a very deep lostness. The younger son gets lost in a much more spectacular way — giving in to his lust and his greed, using women, playing poker, and losing his money. His wrongdoing is very clear-cut. He knows it and everybody else does, too. Because of it he can come back, and he can be forgiven. (Now take the older son.: he is resentful of the welcome his ne'er-do-well brother received.) The problem with resentment is that it is not so clear-cut: It's not spectacular. And it is not overt, and it can be covered by the appearance of a holy life. Resentment is so pernicious because it sits very deep in you, in your heart, in your bones, and in your flesh, and often you don't even know it is there. You think you're so good. But in fact you are lost in a very profound way."

Henri Nouwen, From Fear to Love: Lenten Reflections on the Parable of the Prodigal Son, (Fenton, Missouri: Creative Communications for the Parish, 1998), 13-14.

"When you hold resentment toward another, you are bound to that person or condition by an emotional link that is stronger than steel. Forgiveness is the only way to dissolve that link and get free." — Catherine Ponder.

Failure:

Read the gospels and you see that Jesus had a habit of turning failures into the heroes of his stories. Jesus picked losers such as tax collectors to be his disciples and partied with people who everyone in polite and pious society would have considered to be failures on a whole lot of levels. He didn't seem to mind being pictured as a failure because he knew that was the only way that the many faces on whom the rest of the world had stamped him as a failure would come to him. The parable of the loving father and his two sons was designed to invite self-righteous Pharisees and

NC Community Foundation awards $25,000 to help fund Hurricane Matthew documentary

The board of directors of the North Carolina Community Foundation recently awarded a $25,000 Disaster Relief Fund grant to Longleaf Productions to support the production of a Hurricane Matthew documentary, according to Laura Beasley, statewide grants committee chair and a member of the board of directors.

The grant funding will support the production of a documentary on recovery efforts surrounding Hurricane Matthew. The film will provide an historical overview of the complex and lengthy disaster recovery process and a guide for communities recovering from future natural disasters. Longleaf Productions is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that produces videos and other media of cultural, historical, educational and environmental significance.

NCCF CEO Jennifer Tolle Whiteside said that the Foundation's support continues to focus on helping to meet long-term recovery needs in eastern North Carolina. "We are confident that the NCCF Disaster Relief Fund is having an impact, thanks to the generosity of donors who gave to support eastern North Carolina in the aftermath of Hurricane Matthew," she said.

scribes to see how they had become the older brother, failing to experience the joy and celebration that God does when wayward sinners come home. But it was also designed to remind us all of the embarrassing lengths to which God, in the person of Jesus, would go to make that homecoming a reality.

Forgiveness:

"To forgive is to set a prisoner free and discover that the prisoner was you."

— Lewis B. Smedes.

You will know that forgiveness has begun when you recall those who hurt you and feel the power to wish them well."

— Lewis B. Smedes.

"Love is an act of endless forgiveness, a tender look which becomes a habit."

— Peter Ustinov.

Grace:

Philip Yancey, in his best-selling book What's So Amazing About Grace? It tells the story of a conference on comparative religions held in Britain several decades ago.

A group of theologians and other religious intellectuals were discussing whether any single belief was totally unique to Christianity. Different possibilities were put forth. Perhaps the Incarnation? No, other religions, including the Greek and Roman mythologies, had stories of gods becoming human in form. Resurrection? No, other religions also had stories of people returning from the dead.

The debate continued for some time, when writer C.S. Lewis wandered into the room. "What's the rumpus about?" he asked. They told him they were discussing what Christianity's unique contribution might be among world religions. Very forthrightly, Lewis responded, "Oh, that's easy. It's grace."

After some discussion, the conferees had to agree. The concept that God's love comes to us free of charge, with no strings attached, opposes every bit of human logic. The Buddhists have an eightfold path to enlightenment, the Hindus have the concept of Karma, the Jews seek to adhere to the Torah and Muslims have their code of law from the Koran. Each religion has its own way for people to earn divine approval. Only Christianity dares to declare God's love unconditional — grace.

Lent reminds us that the story of Jesus inevitably moves toward the cross, the ultimate picture of failure and disgrace. Jesus was willing to risk the embarrassment of being stripped, beaten and hanged naked to die and to be held up as a failure for the whole world to see on that Friday. It is through failure that God chooses to save the world. As Paul would later put it, the cross was and is "a stumbling block to Jews and foolishness to Gentiles, but to those who are the called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God. For God's foolishness is wiser than human wisdom, and God's weakness is stronger than human strength" (1 Corinthians 1:23-25). In Christ, our failures aren't final or fatal. We are sinful, we are full of all the mean things we have examined here today and more, but because of LOVE and GRACE, these flaws needn't be fatal. As St Paul tells us, the realization of our frailties (the purpose of the Law is to point these out) is to create in us a longing for God. In Christ, thru love and grace, we are given new life! St Paul writes: "So if anyone is in Christ, there is a new creation: everything old has passed away; see, everything has become new!" (2 Cor. 5: 17)

... MAYOR continued from page 2

Duke Energy at the detriment of their customers. Kevin testified before the commission and recommended Duke be granted 25% of the requested rate increase. The Public Staff of the North Carolina Utilities Commission, your consumer advocate group, recommended 50%, while the state attorney general's office recommended 0%.

Also, a seasonal resident sent me an article from the Winston-Salem Journal stating Duke CEO, Lynn Good, will make $21.4 million dollars this year. I'm all for CEO compensation, but given Duke's negligence, does she really deserve a pay increase? Good was making only 10.8 million in 2015, so I guess it's a cost of living adjustment.

- Loss of Storage Space
- Radon Gas
- Rising Energy Costs

The earth in your dirt crawl space is the major source of moisture in your home! This moisture is carried up into your house from the natural upward air flow created from rising heat.
