MC reports first death related to COVID-19

A Macon County resident diagnosed with COVID-19 has died. The person was over the age of 65 and had underlying medical conditions. To protect the families' privacy, no further information about this patient will be released.

“Our deepest sympathies are with the family and loved ones at this time. We want to reiterate the importance of citizens staying home and practicing social distancing until further direction from our government and health leadership”, stated Carmine Rocco, Macon County Interim Health Director.

Mr. Rocco continued, “Our message to those who are full-time residents, part-time residents, or visiting Macon County: Stay at home. Stay safe. Practice

DA Welch says sheriff to watch for violators

Sheriff Robert Holland has directed his officers to investigate allegations of possible violations involving short-term rentals.

To counter the spread of coronavirus, beginning March 27, Macon County commissioners forbid most short-term rentals or leases.

Owners cannot allow visitors for less than 28 days, or for more than 28 days if the rentals are not occupied on a consistent basis.

“We can’t allow people to refuse to protect their neighbors,” Holland said Monday.

There are exceptions to the local law.

Rental owners are allowed to provide shelter for medical personnel, emergency workers, construction workers and more.

Club managers ease concerns about them bringing in H-2B workers

Alarms have been raised by members of the community concerning H-2B seasonal workers set to arrive in Highlands from Florida around May 1.

Since the governors of Florida, Georgia and Louisiana haven’t taken the COVID-19 outbreak as seriously as others in the country and with only piecemeal safeguards in place, citizens are worried travelers from those areas could infect Highlands.

Three country clubs have been mentioned in talk about town – Wildcat Cliffs Country Club, Cullasaja Club and Sapphire Lakes.

Wildcat Cliffs (WCCC) is the only club with employee housing in town – so it’s the only one the town has any sort of jurisdiction over.

Consequently, Town Manager Josh Ward has been in communication with WCCC CEO/GM Jeff Blais over the past two weeks concerning his H-2B workers.

“We have told them, that if they come to Highlands to live in the in-town employee housing, they wouldn’t be able to leave; they would have to go straight to the housing and would not be permitted to leave the premises while under the 14-day self-quarantine,” said Ward. “They have been given a strict set of guidelines and they have promised to uphold them.”

The H-2B program allows U.S. employers or U.S. agents who meet specific regulatory requirements to bring foreign nationals to the United States to fill temporary nonagricultural jobs. H-2B employees are usually in the country on a 3-year visa and in this area move from working six months in the south (Florida) during winter months Nov. 1 through April 31, to six months in the north (NC, VA, etc.) in the summer months May through October.

The COVID-19 saga continues

Information concerning COVID-19 best practices almost evolves daily. There seems to be no magic bullet solution, but rather a series of routine practices that individuals can do to lessen the coronavirus spread.

Continuous hand washing throughout the day is the first line of defense. Staying in place at home and avoiding unnecessary travel is another essential. The town leadership continues to be concerned about that second homeowners flooding the area when a less dense population would be best for all concerned. Now several country clubs are also urging their seasonal residents not to come to the Highlands Plateau until the pandemic has subsided. As mayor, telling people that they should not visit Highlands is not what I am accustomed to doing, but it is the right thing to do in this situation.

Another effective practice in slowing the spread is for individuals to maintain a 6 foot social distance zone while in public. One question asked on my recent radio broadcast went something to the effect that surely the mayor doesn't expect couples to maintain that social distance. My response is yes, that is when a couple and family members are on public or town property, by all means maintain a social distance. That personal action models to the community what all of us should be doing regardless of our relationship. Our police, for example, have no idea who is a family member and who is not. So, let's keep it simple and practice social distancing when in public at our parks, streets, sidewalks, as well as in grocery stores and businesses.

Highlands Mayor

At the end of last week the CDC and other agencies made the recommendation to wear masks in public places. While a mask, scarf, or bandana will not guarantee total protection, there is growing evidence that covering the nose and mouth helps prevent saliva and fluid from being emitted on surfaces and on other people. An infected person spreading body fluids is a sure path for transmission.

I hope everyone going to the grocery store will cover their face. The grocery store is a critical public venue where extreme caution must be taken. I want to thank our grocery stores for implementing the best practices in combating COVID-19.

Last week I wrote about the Neighbors Helping Neighbors program that the Highlands Chamber of Commerce was developing. The chamber now has a hotline for those who need help or want to volunteer. The number is (828) 482-8200. The program can also be accessed on line at highlandshnh@gmail.com.

As we approach the Easter Weekend let me express our thoughts and concern for those folks in the service economy who have been severely impacted by this crisis. Joni Mitchell's lyrics, "Don't it always seems to go that you don't know what you've got until it's gone," captures what has befallen our hospitality and restaurant community. Please continue to support the restaurant take-out programs. Consider buying a restaurant gift card now so it can be used after the pandemic. The good news on the horizon is that they will make a better than ever comeback.

I also want to thank our police department for the hard work that they have done in manning the road compliance checks. Volunteer fire department personnel have also pitched in to assist the police, and our sanitation workers continue to be on the front line by making daily collections. It's not an understatement that when a crisis occurs the best people step forward to serve.

Thanks to all the caring people of Highlands.

Rules of Civility, Plateau-Style

I consider myself an observer of the human condition and human behavior. I've written before about this part of who we are as sentient beings. As we make our way through this current public health event I think it's fair to say that many otherwise easygoing folks are beginning to experience symptoms consistent with fear and uncertainty in the time of Covid-19.

It's been brought to my attention that a small, potentially ugly ... stress fracture has revealed itself in our idyllic corner of the world.

Since Covid-19 emerged, leaders on all levels have been attempting to find answers to questions that have never before been asked in our lifetime. Most center around how to protect a particular population – a town, a state, our nation – from the spread of something with the proven capability to harm, or even kill us.

Highlands Mayor Pat Taylor, as I mentioned last week, has been reporting what he has learned, and is doing what he can to help keep the community informed and, to the extent he has any influence over it, safe. A part of this effort includes asking part-time residents who own property here to stay home until, for want to a better term, the “all clear” has sounded.

Now, we all understand, or should understand that there are some contradictory impulses at work here. People who have purchased property here, pay taxes here, pump money and energy into our economy here, want to be here. And, despite the mayor's pleas, they have every right to be here. Whether or not it makes sense for them to be here is another issue.

They're being asked, as we all have been asked, to self-quarantine for two weeks, and to observe local, state and federal social distancing guidelines. They also, so as not to put undue pressure on limited resources, have been asked to bring a two-week supply of grocery and pharmacy necessities with them in order to comply with the quarantine.

Whether or not they fully grasp the limitations of our healthcare system and capabilities here on the plateau remains an open question. But the fact remains that, prior to the imposition of “soft” HPD roadblocks and the mayor's pleas and proclamations, a few, perhaps many, are here.

Unfortunately, it appears that some of us who live here full-time have taken the mayor's plea for part-time residents to stay home an unpleasant step further. They have, perhaps passively, but in some cases aggressively, communicated displeasure with this, as they see it, flouting of the mayor's suggestion. And, they've done it loudly, and sometimes in public.

As I said, there are a couple of human dynamics at work here. The first is fear, of both the virus and of the unknown. The second is a loss of control over their – our – lives. They – we – all of us – are unable to live our lives as we all did prior to Covid-19. And, we don't like it.

Even if we don't understand the appeal of quarantining here as opposed to wherever ‘back home’ is to our part time residents, most of us, I believe, keep those concerns to ourselves. A few, though, apparently feel the need to express those feelings directly to our part-time resident friends and neighbors.

Let me be clear – despite the circumstances, it's not okay to make a neighbor feel unwanted in a place where they've always been welcome. By the same token, part-time residents shouldn't blithely dismiss the legitimate health and safety concerns of their full-time neighbors. We're equal in this struggle. We're looking for the same resolution to our fears and to our sense of control over our lives.

I've noted before that these are rough and uncharted seas and that we're all in a small boat attempting to find refuge. I believe a significant number, perhaps a majority of our part time residents will, in fact, stay at home this year. I also have a sense that before all is said and done on the Covid-19 front, our entire plateau community is going to experience a level of economic pain similar to what we felt in the wake of the 2008 national meltdown. What I don't want to see is a loss of civility and a lack of compassion for people who, under normal circumstances, would be good, if symbiotic, friends and neighbors.

These are scary, uncertain times. As that well-known Los Angeles philosopher, Rodney King once famously said, “Can't we all just get along?”

We Will Win This War...Sooner or Later

It's hard to know where to begin with the changes that have taken place in all our lives in the past month. What a great economy we had, and real estate sales were booming! Then all of a sudden, the whole world changed, unlike 911 when only the United States was dealt a blow. For months following the terrorist attack we became a country united, having realized how vulnerable we are as a nation, we all grieved not only the loss of innocent lives, but also the loss of freedom as we once knew it. We were never to be the same but for a while we were all kinder to each other knowing we were all in this together.

Fast forward to the pandemic the ENTIRE world now faces. This ugly and terrifying virus doesn't care about your political affiliation, the amount of money you have in the stock market or banks, the color of your skin, your past, your present, or your future life. It doesn't care if you are a good person who reaches out to help humanity or whether you only are only concerned with your life and are selfish. It doesn't care if you are an alcoholic or drug addict and doesn't care if you warm a church pew every Sunday. It doesn't care if you are a Hollywood celebrity or a professional athlete, or a restaurant owner, a server -who greets us with a smile and depends on tips-president or CEO of a corporation, a small business owner, a member of law enforcement or a criminal, or a hospital worker in overload trying to save lives. In other words, it doesn't discriminate as humans sometimes do.

I feel, once more, that we are realizing how united we should be, without politics keeping us divided. We have the right to choose many things in life but the Covid -19 has the power over EVERYONE in the world at the moment. It chooses, in its own way, who lives and who doesn't. Be kind, be smart, stay home and together we can defeat this. America is the greatest country in the world and we all will remain stronger together. To criticize how unprepared we were, as far as a shortage of masks and ventilators, helps no one. As Americans we are full speed ahead in finding a vaccine, a Covid-19 test, and finally a cure. There is no way we could have known or been prepared and we should all be understanding and work together.

Pat Allen, BIC
Pat Allen Realty Group

As far as real estate in our area, I feel that once the pandemic is over, we will see a surge of buyers wanting to live in a smaller town, such as ours, where they feel safer, have better communication, and share a true comradeship with people who care. My office is staying in touch with buyers and sellers and are addressing their concerns. If you have questions you can email me at pat@patallenrealttygroup.com.

I will end by saying how proud I am of Mayor Pat Taylor, who is doing his best to keep us safe, members of law enforcement who risk their lives every time a car window is rolled down, health care workers ,who risk becoming infecting while helping others live, the workers at Bryson's and Mountain Fresh, who make sure we have supplies but risk catching Covid-19 every day, and restaurants and their workers who allow us to pick up curbside the food we so desire. And I thank all of you for staying home to prevent spreading this ugly virus by not becoming its host or hostess. We will get through this and will once again be more appreciative, not just the life we live, but life itself.

The staff at the Eckerd Living Center sends a heartfelt message to the community.

I was leaving the restaurant today, driving down Main Street in Highlands. The governor, the county and the town have shut down all restaurants. Town was dead. The whole country is on its heels and staying home.

There would normally be about a hundred cars on Main Street. Tonight there were two. So, I am driving along checking things out and there is this little girl and her mom. The little girl is skipping down the sidewalk, jumping up trying to touch the signs and things hanging above the sidewalk. Impressed with her enthusiasm and general zeal for life, I gave the horn a quick toot-toot.

It is important to mention here that I am from the Northeast. We use our horns when driving. For a lot of the country the horn is just a button on the steering wheel you accidentally push once a year. For us, it was a form of communication of sorts. It ranged from a "hello neighbor" toot-toot all the way up to the blazing "Hey! you almost killed us!"

Anyway, I gave the little girl and her mom a friendly toot-toot. I was happy that they were happy and enjoying the day. The little girl stopped in her tracks. For a second, I thought, I shouldn't have done that. Then, the little girl raised her arms like she was Rocky at the top of those steps in Philadelphia and her mom doubled over laughing. I raised my fist out of the sunroof and they both clapped for some reason.

Thus encouraged, I next drove past a middle-aged woman in yoga pants with an I-Phone in her ears. Gave her a friendly toot-toot. She waved like I was a friend, but with the enthusiasm of a fan at a rock concert. I wonder what music she was listening to.

Next, was two couples – high school or college age – holding hands walking down the sidewalk. Gave them a little toot-toot. The girls were confused, but the guys whoop-whooped and waved their arms.

So, I turned out of Highlands, got down the road and started out of town. A short way down the road around the bend comes a Subaru with two kayaks and camping stuff. Couldn't help it. Gave them a little friendly toot-toot.

At that point, I thought I should just leave the horn alone. But...for some reason I took a quick glance in the rear view and sure enough, the driver of the Subaru had his fist raised out of the sunroof.

I am not sure what this story really adds up to. I didn't speak to any of these people. But I will never forget that moment when the little girl raised her arms up in some sort of victory, her mom laughing, my fist raised out the sunroof.

I can't imagine what we had in common except for the fact that we all choose to be happy. Maybe we all just need a friendly acknowledgement now and again. Toot-toot. I see you!

the COVID-19 Pandemic

down with attitude!

My wife Julie and I own a medical pharmaceutical/device research company in Northeast Georgia whereby we provide new medicines/drug delivery systems to patients in Georgia and North Carolina.

We have a residence in Highlands and in Gainesville. Over the past several years we have gotten to know people in the Highlands community and feel a part of the community.

We have been working on a new treatment for Alzheimers Disease the development of which is threatened by the COVID-19 pandemic. Our clinic like many across the United States was running out of masks and gloves. Our staff have been working many over-time hours to maintain patient safety and to provide continued treatment but were becoming overwhelmed due to COVID-19 and its impact.

Krysti and Thomas Henderson (owners of Chocolate Heaven and The Cake Bar in Highlands) heard about our difficulties and we got a care package from them including a Chocolate Heaven cake and hand sewn masks made by a local wedding gown seamstress.

I cannot tell you how much that meant to us emotionally in this time of need.

Thought you may want to pass this story along to show how the community is rallying around their healthcare providers.

Thank you for all the support. We love Highlands!

Clubs' seasonal employment is secured between October and January and if employers rescind on contractual arrangements, they are liable for travel expenses back to the workers' home country.

Club managers say had they known the virus outbreak was coming and so many people would be out of work they wouldn't have secured H-2B workers and instead would have hired locally.

H-2B workers at WCCC are from South Africa and those at Cullasaja are from South Africa and the Caribbean. (Sapphire Lakes didn't respond by press time.)

The first thing all club managers want the public to know is that they live here with their families, too, so they are as concerned as everyone else about the spread of COVID-19 and strict precautions are in place regarding their seasonal workers – H-2B or otherwise.

WCCC's Blais said though the process is still in the planning stages, he expects between 20-25 workers who will all arrive in Highlands together – at the same time and they will all be quarantined in the same place at the same time.

"I work with a recruiter, but I am managing the process and we are being very conscientious and know it's important to do this right," he said. "The plan is to get them all here at the same time so they are quarantined in our employee housing for the same amount of time."

Though normally H-2B workers trickle in over a couple of weeks, Blais said he wants to take care of this in one swoop.

Club vehicles will meet the bus or charter bringing the workers to Highlands somewhere outside of town – possibly Cashiers or Clayton.

They will be installed at the employee housing on the Franklin Road three workers per house.

"The unique thing here is we will do this in one day. They have been assigned rooms in advance and we have stocked each unit with kitchen staples they will need as well as household goods and toiletries like napkins, paper towels, toilet paper and cleaning supplies, including gloves. They will stay there for 14 days and on day 15 we will physically see them."

Blais also said only three people can be on the unit's porch at a time and only one person can come off porch to exercise around the loop or take the garbage out.

Day one of the quarantine begins the day after they arrive and that day they can send a list of groceries or necessities they need via email and one of the full-time staffers will pick up what they need and leave it on the porch.

"No one will come in contact with them," said Blais.

Each day Monday through Friday someone from the club will deliver lunch to them and leave it on the porch, as well.

"In addition, each day, Monday through Friday, if they need anything, they can email us by 3 p.m. and again we will deliver it to the porch," he said.

He said besides email, the club is also using Zoom and Facetime to communicate.

"We interviewed them in January before the COVID-19 issue broke so we are committed to them. If we say we don't want them at this point, then we have to fly them back to their home country which screws up their visa," said Blais.

He said WCCC takes care of its staff and all seasonal employees from elsewhere, and even those from state-side colleges housing with WCCC or elsewhere on the plateau are being treated the same way – that is instructed to self-quarantine for 14

"We are very stringent regarding our regulations," he said.

About a quarter of the H-2B workers have worked at WCCC before and Blais said they are glad to have them back. They will be working on the golf course, outdoor services, food and beverage front and back of the house; waitstaff, kitchen staff and dishwashing.

Blais said WCCC members have been advised of the situation and have been sent the state, Macon and Jackson counties' proclamations as well as the town's.

"We've told them there are limited services at the club, to come with whatever groceries or medicines they need and to also self-quarantine for 14 days.

"We are making sure everyone follows the rules. We are part of the community, too," he said.

General Manager of the Cullasaja Club Chris Conner said they have contracted for five H-2B kitchen workers (cooks) who like those coming to WCCC are currently employed in clubs in south Florida – in his case Naples and Palm City near Stuart, FL.

They are expected to arrive via plane between May 1 and May 11 and like WCCC will be required to self-quarantine for 14 days in Cullasaja employee housing on the Cashiers Road.

"They don't have transportation, but still they won't be able to leave the employee housing area," said Connor. "In the past, they have flown into Charlotte and we go get them, but if they can't fly, we will have to go down and get them."

At Cullasaja, there will be one person per room. Like at WCCC, club staff will get groceries or whatever they need and deliver to the front door. Training will be visual online training.

"But they are already cooks, so basically they just need to learn our menu," he said. "They are returning employees. The nice thing is they can come back for three seasons; they are good people."

After 14 days, if anyone feels ill or shows signs of the virus, they won't be working and if it doesn't work out they will be sent back to their country.

"We are all in this together. For every club in the area, putting the safety of their members and the community is paramount. We all live here year-round. We aren't going to do anything to endanger the area," said Connor. "And instead of opening May 1 we have postponed our opening to late May."

Meanwhile, Cullasaja is hiring locally for all other positions including front of the house in dining services – bartenders and servers.

• SPIRITUALLY SPEAKING •Pray for hope and faith

Dr. Curtis Fussell

Co-Pastor at First Presbyterian Church

In this season of both Passover and Holy Week, people of faith prayed. The Hebrew scriptures are filled with prayers. The Psalms present a variety of prayers. Prayers of joy and thanksgiving, and prayers of lament and even questions about God's presence in our lives.

We have in the Gospels the testimony that Jesus prayed often. He prayed when he was baptized, when he chose his disciples, when he needed spiritual renewal. Jesus also prayed on the night before his crucifixion, and then finally on the cross where he even prayed for his executioners.

The only teaching the disciples ever requested was "Teach us to pray." They didn't ask how to preach or how to heal; they only asked how to pray. What Jesus then instructed is that we pray for both ourselves and others. Indeed, he teaches that we also pray for our enemies. What a challenge it is to pray.

So, how do we pray? Praying, if we are honest, demands reflection, mindfulness, and even struggle. After all, prayer involves the whole of our lives, our hearts, our minds, and our spirits. It involves an awareness of ourselves and others, and empathy for our enemies.

One particular teaching we have from Jesus occurs on the night before his was arrested and taken to be crucified. Jesus teaches how to pray when we are facing a critical time in our lives. Jesus said to his disciples on that night, "Pray that you do not enter into temptation." In other words, "Pray that you will not succumb to the crisis at hand."

However, we're told in the Gospel of Luke that the disciples fell asleep, because they were "weighed down with grief." Now, we can all relate to what was happening. Grief is the most exhausting emotion. They had heard Jesus speak about his impending death. That announcement grieved them and exhausted them.

In recent days, in this time of the Covid-19 crisis, someone said they were exhausted at the end of the day. "After trying to do office work at home, and after all the phone calls, all the texting, all the emails, all the news, and the economy, alongside the vigilance to practice social distancing, I'm just exhausted and worn out at the end of the day."

In the garden of suffering where Jesus prayed, he provides us a lesson on how to pray in a time of crisis. He addresses God with a term of endearment, "Abba," which means "Father." "Abba, Father, if it be your will, take this cup of suffering from me." Jesus knows God as abiding presence in times of crisis. Jesus also doesn't ask whether God is able to take that cup away. Jesus asks if God will take it away. However, immediately Jesus says, "Yet, not my will but yours be done." In other words, Jesus accepts that he has his part to do in his time of crisis.

In times of crisis, in times of grief and weariness, we are told that they can be times that reveal the depth of our character. We can be tempted to be overwhelmed to the degree that we give up and fall sleep. We can be tempted to grieve and lament our situation to such a degree that we fall into despair. We can be tempted to think that God is not with us in the crisis time. We are tempted to think there is nothing we can do.

But learn this lesson from Jesus on praying: keep praying for yourself, for others, and even for your enemies. Pray to do good to others, as you have them do good to you. Pray that your sense of weariness will provide you an incentive to look forward beyond the present crisis to the time when God will bring new life. In this way, praying will become an activity of hope and faith, in ourselves, in others, and in God.

State of Emergency” for a complete list.

As of Monday, Macon County had one case of confirmed COVID-19 involving a full-time resident and two confirmed cases involving nonresidents. There has been one coronavirus-connected death.

District Attorney Ashley Hornsby Welch said her office intends to vigorously prosecute anyone charged with violating short-term rental restrictions.

The penalty is a class-two misdemeanor carrying a maximum sentence of up to 60 days in jail and/or a $1,000 fine.

“Local leaders are trying to provide protections for the good of all residents during this national, regional and community crisis,” Welch said Monday. “The unlawful and selfish actions of just a few could have enormous negative health consequences for many.”

Call Macon County Sheriff's Office at 349-2104 to report possible short-term visitation violations.

Additionally, visitors to Macon County are requested to self-quarantine for a minimum of 14 days. They are encouraged to read the “State of Emergency” orders, also at www.maconnc.org, for recommendations connected with the coronavirus threat.
