STRs in all districts stand says PB

At a special called Planning Board work-session meeting Tuesday night, the board tried to put the finishing touches on the short-term rental ordinance they last worked on in December.

Except for a couple of items, the recommendations didn't change. In a 6-1 vote the board voted to accept what they hammered out in December – mainly that STRs in some form would be allowed in every residential district.

Member Wendell Willard – who is basically against STRs in any form in any residential zone and who repeatedly suggested they were mainly in existence for the wedding industry – voted against the recommendations as a whole

Snow festival in K-H Founders Park is set for Jan. 29 & 30.

Chamber rolls out first annual Snow Fest

Heralded as cold-weather magic front and center, the first annual Snow Fest will feature everything from twinkly lights to fun in the snow Saturday and Sunday, Jan 29-30.

Planned as a way to bring visitors to town in the off-season, according to the Chamber of Commerce, the event is for “those who are adventurous and unfazed by the blustery wind and temps, and promises to be at least one way to ward off wintertime blues.”

Though mother nature may lay the groundwork with temperatures cold enough for snow,

NC filing to reopen Feb 24 after court ruling

By Brittney Lofthouse

A three-panel judge ruled Tuesday evening that North Carolina's redistricting maps will not be tossed out. In their ruling, in Wake County Superior Court in Raleigh, N.C., the three judges agreed that both the legislative and congressional maps were “a result of intentional, pro-Republican partisan redistricting.” The Wake County Superior Court Judges stated in their ruling that the maps are not unconstitutional regardless of the partisan advantage they may give Republicans.

“Were we as a Court to insert ourselves in the manner requested, we would be usurping the political power and prerogatives of an equal branch of government,” wrote Superior Court Judges Gra-

The business of running the town is in full swing

Let me cover several current items. Some of this information comes from questions folks have sent to my website in recent days.

First, Optimum is continuing COVID testing at the Highlands Community Building next to the ball field on Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 to 5. This state testing program is in high demand. Testing supplies are becoming limited, as well as testing personnel are being impacted by Omicron. We are fortunate that Optimum is providing this service, and I am hopeful it will continue. The Macon County Health Department is also conducting testing in Franklin.

While the town has provided the site for testing, we are not directly involved in its operation. We open and close the building and sanitize the facility after each session.

Some folks have complained about having to wait outside during this cold weather. Given the spread of the virus and the confined space of the Community Center, having large number of potentially infected people waiting inside the testing area is not an acceptable protocol.

Highlands Mayor

The testing process can be expedited by folks going to the Highlands Cashiers Health Foundation website and preregistering. Once on the website scroll down to COVID Testing to where preregistration into the Optimum system is accessible. Preregistration eliminates the need to enter basic information at the testing site and reduces wait times for everyone. If you have previously used Optimum testing services, preregistration is not required a second time.

The replacement of the waterline on Moorewood Road will be underway soon. A major delay has been a limited supply of six-inch ductile iron water pipe. The contractor has had search for and order the pipe from multiple suppliers.

Town electric crews are in the process of replacing the old sodium vapor street-lights with new LED lights. The new lights are more in keeping with the dark sky initiative. They produce a natural light that is directed and focused down onto the street. Crews are getting 50 light units at a time and installing them asap. They are about halfway through the conversion process.

I continue to get questions about when Hotwire will begin operations. Hotwire is in the process of setting up equipment, upgrading the headend building to meet their standards, and setting up an office. They will announce in local media very soon their plans for operation. For folks who live in neighborhoods with underground utilities, the process will take longer since Hotwire will have to install underground conduit. The underground portion of the network will involve about 18% of the residences, and it will be more expensive and challenging to install. Hotwire is committed to provide this service.

We are in the winter season where power outages are very likely with heavy snow and winds. Our friends in Macon County Emergency Services want to remind everyone not to call 911 if there is a loss of power. Outages during business hours can be reported to Town Hall at 526-2118. After hours call 526-4131, a nonemergency number. But my request is to be patient. During these winter storms our electric crews monitor the electric system and restore power as soon as it is safe to work. In these winter events, power failures invariably impact large sections of the town. If everyone immediately calls 911, the emergency system will be overloaded to quickly respond to life threatening situations.

Facts matter

Dear Editor,

Well known Highlands Realtor Pat Allen wrote an Investing at 4,118 Ft, column in the Highlands Newspaper Dec. 30 edition on the issue of short-term rentals.

Unfortunately, on several important facts, Ms. Allen is just wrong. STRs are a crucial issue that threaten the character of Highlands and future livability of our town. Facts matter as the Town moves to establish clarity on this issue.

The facts are:

- The Dog Mountain Property Owners Association has never sued the Town as she claimed. Ironically, although she seems to express regret that there is litigation surrounding this issue, publicly available information reflects that Ms. Allen contributed $900 to the STR group that is in fact suing the Town, so she is helping to fund the very lawsuit that she is concerned about.

- In fact, 100 per cent of the homeowners on Dog Mountain petitioned the town in 2012 (many years before the explosion of short-term rentals in Highlands) to be annexed into the Town, willingly accepting the extra tax burden. Why? We wanted the protections of the current zoning laws for R-1 that explicitly prohibits all commercial activity, including “overnight accommodations.”

- Ms. Allen also erroneously says that the Town’s board of commissioners voted to ban “all short-term rentals in R-1...”

They did not. The commission by consensus simply agreed to enforce the existing zoning laws, which prohibit short-term rentals in R-1 and R-3 zoning districts and require special use permits (which also includes a number of restrictions that protect the neighbors and neighborhoods) in R-2 zoning districts.

- Ms. Allen erroneously says the homes in R-1 “would no longer be allowed to be offered as rentals.” That isn’t true either.

The fact is long-term rentals are allowed in R-1 under the current zoning law. The town attorney Jay Coward in the council’s August 2021 meeting confirmed that the ordinance prohibits STRs in R-1. Homeowners who need rental income to offset their purchase, can still rent, they just can’t do so on a short-term basis like a hotel.

- Ms. Allen and others have suggested that regulations should be put in place to govern short-term renters with fines and screening. Who would enforce these rules? Not the STR owners. They live elsewhere and don’t know in real time about violations. No, under this idea, it falls on neighbors to report the violations, making homeowners who invested in R-1 who want to live without commercial activity the “monitors” that police STRs. That’s not fair. There should be (and always has been) a residential zone in Highlands for homeowners who do not want to live next to a revolving door of renters.

- Ms. Allen asks “how (can) we continue to have weddings or short-term events.” if we don’t have enough rooms to rent?” Our question is “Why should residential

William Warren Ashburn, III

William Warren Ashburn, III, 74 and affectionally known as Wick or Paka Wick, died peacefully on December 30, 2021 after a short battle with Lewy Body dementia. Most of his family was with him when he entered heaven.

Born in Savannah, Wick attended Savannah Country Day School, graduated from Newberry College where he was a founding brother of their Kappa Alpha order, and from Mercer Law School.

He practiced law in Savannah as a founding partner of Ashburn, Beckmann and Lewis until 1985.

In 1982, Wick and Marjorie Manley Ashburn, also of Savannah, were married and soon moved to one of their favorite places – Highlands, NC. There, he and Margie raised their incredible daughters and Wick took the helm of Coldwell Banker Ashburn Real Estate.

They all had a wonderful life in the mountains at Highlands Falls Country Club – playing golf with great friends and trying to keep the girls out of trouble!

Shortly after Wick became ill, he and Margie moved back home to Savannah, GA.

Wick was the second son of the late Thomas Norvell Ashburn and Jewell Hurst Ashburn.

He was also preceded in death by his sister, Rosalind Ashburn Demere.

In addition to his wife of 39 years, Margie, he is survived by several very important and loved people. His daughters, Daisy Eleanor Ashburn of Savannah, GA; Leslie Ashburn Cook (Adam), grandchildren, William Grant Cook and Elizabeth Jewell Cook of Highlands, NC; Rosalind Carlyene Ashburn of Palm Springs, CA and Savannah; Ramsey Ingram Ashburn of Highlands and Rebecca Cubbedge Ashburn also of Highlands.

Wick's extended family includes his brother, Tom Norvell Ashburn, Jr. (Maggie) of Columbia, SC, his sister, Anna Priscilla Ashburn (Terri Rupel) of Los Angeles, CA; and his brother-in-law, Hobart Leslie Manley, III (Terri). Nieces and nephews, Patrick Ashburn, Sara Ashburn Reed, Elizabeth Demere Froelich, Houston Demere, Hobie Manley, IV and Erin Manley.

Wick will be missed by his in-laws who were also his great friends, Marilyn and Hobart Manley, Jr.

His humor, generosity, fairness and his great love for his family and God will leave a large hole in many hearts.

A memorial service will be held at Bonaventure Cemetery in Savannah, GA at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Wayne Pearson Scholarship Fund at Newberry College, Newberry, SC.

in case there's not enough of the white stuff, snow will be blown to fill in the spots or if necessary, fill the entire Kelsey-Hutchinson Park on Pine Street.

The two-day event will run from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., on Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

At the December Town Board meeting, Chamber Director Kay McHan requested and got permission to keep some of the holiday lights up in the park for night-time lighting purposes and to allow snow to be blown.

At November's meeting, commissioner voiced concern over the noise made by snow blowers but McHan said only one snow blowing machine is needed and the decibels is only 70 from about 10-20 feet away.

Commissioners also wondered about the need to use town water from a hydrant but the Snow Magic company is carting in ice to make the snow rather than using water.

Activities include Snoga – yoga in the snow with Yoga Highlands -- ice sculptures with The Bascom, s'mores, an ice slide, and a merry-go-round.

Preparations will begin 9 a.m., Friday, Jan. 28 with snow blowing stopping by 10 p.m.

Last minute snow blowing (dusting) might take place early Saturday and Sunday morning, if necessary, prior to the event starting at 10 a.m.

The festival is free, but s'mores will be sold as a fundraiser by Highlands School athletes.

value to a property. It should be noted that if the feature is not attached to the property, it would be considered personal property and a seller could take it if it wasn't specifically listed in the contract.

Along with fireplaces there are maintenance issues that need to be noted. Wood burning fireplaces should have the chimneys cleaned every few years, dependent on the frequency of use. Chimneys have flashing where they penetrate the roof that can leak. All fireplaces should be inspected for deterioration or cracking in the hearth, firebox and flue. Some of the prefabricated units are approaching 50 years old and should be inspected for rusting. It is becoming much more common for this to be part of the inspection process for buyers of a house. Although it is not inexpensive, it is possible to replace a prefabricated fireplace with an updated model.

Chimney caps are quite common here because of the heavy amounts of rain that we receive. These can be made of metal, brick, stone or concrete. When showing a house with a wood roof I always point out that many insurance companies will not insure a house with a wood roof and a wood burning fireplace. Some insurance companies are now requiring the installation of spark arresters over the chimney flues in order to insure the property.

Choosing the right type of fireplace or fire feature will vary on many factors. Some people do not want to deal with firewood, the smell of smoke or the disposal of ashes. Other people are looking for a switch on/off feature that they don't have to worry about once the use for the day is finished. Sometimes the fireplace is not only for looks but also a primary source of heat or secondary source when the power is out. In almost all cases the fireplace or feature will add value if built or installed correctly and tastefully.

Whatever type of fireplace or feature you prefer, be sure to operate it according to the instructions, check it regularly and have professionals involved when needed. There are plenty of knowledgeable chimney sweeps and fireplace companies on the plateau and they can help keep your home safe from a fire disaster. Hopefully you will have that special feature that you can gather around with family or friends and share stories and create memories.

I do hope that the town doesn't do away with STRs. We have brought other couples and family members with us a number of times and they all love coming there. We don't party or cause problems like the ones I have read about in your paper. We just come and enjoy the town and area. Great restaurants, shops, waterfalls and other sights to enjoy.

It seems to me that rules could be in place to prohibit those problems if the owners of these homes made it perfectly clear what can and can't be done to the people renting these homes.

If the renters don't abide by the rules then the owners should be responsible for the problems.

The couple that we rent from couldn't be nicer and easier to work with and they have very clear instructions as to what is expected.

I think stopping STRs will have an enormous financial impact on Highlands and I hope it doesn't happen.

Highlands is a great place to visit and we would really miss being able to come to this wonderful area.

We never knew we were so hated

Dear Editor,

We are "short term" renters, for 20+ years. We come in July or August so we miss the weddings.

I treat the town with respect. I take my trash and recycle to Buck Creek. We rent from a local real estate company and are pleased with their service.

The only time we get loud is when I play Uno with my grandchildren. We are in bed by 10.

I never knew we were so hated.

We have spent thousands of dollars in the town; we even bought our luggage there. So, I am disappointed about the STR issue, but if we are not allowed to rent in Highlands, I am sure there are other places we can go for rest and relaxation.

Robert Heider
St. Louis, MO

Clarification of the contentious STR issue is required

Dear Editor,

Regarding the Investing at 4,118 Ft. column I wrote in the Dec. 30 edition of Highlands Newspaper entitled "Sense and Sensibility" in which I discussed short-term rentals in R-1 districts in Highlands - I appreciate Carol Gable's follow-up letter-to-the-editor to my article with her "facts" and the opportunity to respond.

Because of my profession and with the responsibility not to mislead my clients, I have followed the dispute of those for STRs and those against. I have attended meetings where we weren't allowed to ask questions to try and get clarification on this matter.

Essentially, since 2006, the popularity of the expansive internet rental market has grown and has led to numerous homes in town in Highlands being sold with the thought that they could be used as short-term rentals to offset their mortgage.

Short-term rentals weren't prevalent in Highlands until more and more people were drawn to our area. Many of the wedding goers would try to book hotel reservations and find that all of the hotel rooms in our area were booked. They optionally searched VRBO and Airbnb homes and found they would accommodate large groups who preferred to be in town near the churches or the venue, which was often held at one of the OEI facilities.

Additionally, when tourists came for an event, whether a wedding, Chamber event, or simply an unrelated long weekend getaway, they found that there were not enough rooms in town to accommodate them; therefore, the need for STRs grew. And with the recent sale of Mitchell's Lodge and Cottages for other purposes, we now have 28 fewer hotel rooms than before.

Ms. Gable's summation that the Commissioner's Zoom meeting did not vote to "ban" STRs is the same meeting I watched. Her reference to enforcing the existing laws, which she claims disallows them, is the reason there is ongoing litigation between two groups -- one to keep STRs and the other to disallow or ban, as I interpret the word, since short-term rentals have been allowed for many years in R-1 zoning districts.

At the special Zoom meeting, where no one but Commissioners were allowed to speak, it was shocking to R-1 homeowners, who are currently using their homes for STRs, to hear that they could no longer rent them. This is when groups formed for and against the issue at hand.

There was no discussion of the economic impact this restriction would have for business owners or the impact on current homeowners who are renting on a short-term basis during this Zoom meeting. There was no discussion regarding the implications of how banning STRs in R-1 zones may diminish the value of those homes while conversely and inadvertently increasing the values of homes in R-2 zones. The only discussion during the meeting was to disallow, or as I say, "ban," STRs in R-1 zones and possibly all three zones. Brokers in our area were flooded with phone calls asking them to explain "what happened," which we simply could not do.

I was invited to a meeting at Highlands Country Club with several Dog Mountain residents in October of 2021 who are opposed to STRs in their own neighborhood, and I do understand their objections. No one wants to be subjected to loud conversations, excessive cars, and trash that is not secured.

Ms. Gable does admit that

they asked to be annexed into the Town of Highlands in 2012 because the Dog Mountain residents wanted “the protections of the current zoning laws that prohibits all commercial activity, including overnight accommodations.” Their HOA covenants and restrictions had expired so they wanted the Town of Highlands to regulate the usage of their homes.

To summarize from my “Investing” column, my remarks were that we need regulations, and they need to fall back on the homeowners with fines, large non-refundable deposits from the renters if there is a disturbance, and a refusal to rent to them again.

My article entailed merely a few suggestions for a complicated situation whose outcome will now be determined by attorneys for both sides. My monetary contribution is to help sort out the ordinance and what it means to homeowners and to finally resolve this. I don't look at it as suing the town but needing clarification moving forward. We have buyers who are leery of buying in Highlands until this issue is resolved.

Approximately three years ago Realtors® were invited to a town meeting for the discussion of STRs. After much discussion, our Town Manager said we would pattern rentals after Wilmington and homeowners and rental companies just needed to register their homes. The town then placed a rental registration form on its website. This certainly did not say that short-term rentals were not allowed. Within the last two years a commissioner, who is a Realtor®, sold a home and assured the buyer he could use it as a VRBO. The buyer was our client and is now involved in this controversy. Actions and the ordinance in question do not coin-

I am not an attorney and find it almost impossible to understand legal jargon. The mayor has asked the planning board to make recommendations on STRs moving forward after the current situation is settled.

I have no issue with limiting STRs with the sale to new buyers. It needs to be totally CLEAR this time and not ambiguous as before.

We were allowed to sell homes for STRs, and the town was aware of this and received tax revenue from homeowners because of it. I hope this can be settled soon and we can move forward and mend this divisiveness. Any time there is an “us” against “them” situation someone will always lose. A compromise is the solution and should be done quickly.

Howland recounts 6-week sea voyage at Rotary

The guest speaker last week at the Rotary Club of Highlands meeting was Dr. Slocum Howland. After being introduced by President Tom Graham, Slocum, also a member of the club shared the story of his trans-Atlantic sailboat adventure. In 2001, Slocum, who as a youngster spent a lot of time sailing, was asked by an old friend from high school, owner of a 45-foot sailboat, if he would consider being part of three-man crew who would sail from Florida to Bermuda to the Azores to Portugal, a 4,000-mile journey. Slocum, along with the third member, another friend of the owner, agreed, and after a year of preparations, the three set off on a 6-week voyage that amounted to the adventure of a lifetime, sometimes thrilling, often challenging, and sometimes downright harrowing!

COVID vaccinations and testing updates

By Tom Neal

CEO/CNO

Highlands Cashiers Hospital

Last week, two revised protocols from NCDHHS regarding Pfizer were issued following new CDC guidance.

The Optum vaccination site at the Highlands Recreation center has adopted these guidelines. The vaccination site is offering pediatric and adult Pfizer every Thursday from 9-5. No appointment is necessary or accepted.

First, booster shots interval reduction.

The interval recommended between the completion of primary vaccination of the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 Vaccine and use of a booster dose has been shortened from six months to five months.

Moderately or severely immunocompromised children ages 5-11 are allowed to receive an additional primary dose of vaccine 28 days after their second shot. Please note: Only the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine is authorized and recommended for children ages 5-11. At this time, fully vaccinated children ages 5-11 who are not immunocompromised do not need a third dose.

Administration of a Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 booster dose to 12-to 15-year-olds. At this time, only the Pfizer-BioNTech

COVID-19 vaccine is authorized for the use of a single booster dose for administration to individuals 12-to-15 years of age at least five months after completion of primary vaccination with the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine.

Testing

Optum will provide testing from 9a-5p on the following days through the end of January:

Tuesdays at the Village Green in Cashiers

Wednesday and Friday at the Highlands Community Building

Scheduling an appointment is the best option to ensure you can get your test. You can schedule an appointment by calling (877) 562-4850 or going on line at lhi.care/covidtesting.

Also, PCR testing is always available.

There is a surge of testing demand at the North Carolina sites, and we were advised the manufacturer of CareStart depleted their inventory of rapid tests. Therefore, for the week of Jan 10th staff will ONLY give rapid tests to the patients who pre-registered for a rapid. If a patient didn't pre-register for a rapid then they can ONLY receive a PCR test.

Nantahala Health Foundation to invest more than $470,000 in regional health, wellness initiatives

Nantahala Health Foundation is pleased to announce it will invest more than $470,000 in 13 regional nonprofit organizations through its Collaborative Health Innovation Project (CHIP) grant-making program this month in support of their efforts to improve health and wellness outcomes for many of our region's most underprivileged residents.

The success of each awarded proposal depends heavily on the applying organization teaming up with at least one, and in some cases more than five, collaborating partners. Likewise, each agency's proposal, once implemented, seeks to apply a unique approach to eliminating root-cause barriers to health and wellness, according to Nantahala Health Foundation Executive Director Lori Bailey.

"At our core, Nantahala Health Foundation's mission is to serve as a catalyst for innovation and collaboration. This mission framed the eligibility criteria for our second round of CHIP grant awards," Bailey said. "Through our grant review process, we were excited to discover so many collaborative and innovative projects being considered or already at work addressing social determinants of health in our region."

Social determinants of health are known to directly impact up to 50% of an individual's health outcomes over their lifetime. When coupled with lifestyle choices, which impact about 30% of expected health outcomes, only 20% of an individual's health is directly related to clinical visits and care. In other words, where and how you live, learn, work, and thrive significantly influences (up to 80%) of your long-term health outcomes.

"An ever-growing body of research illustrates that social determinants of health and lifestyle choices far exceed cumulative physician visits when it comes to predicting health outcomes," said David Garrett, who serves as chair of Nantahala Health Foundation's board of directors. "That's why we have chosen to work with organizations specifically addressing social determinants of health as a way of improving wellness for all in Western North Carolina."

Organizations awarded CHIP funding will launch or continue programs to improve the health of individuals in Cherokee, Clay, Graham, Swain, Jackson, and Macon counties, as well as the Qualla Boundary. Additionally, CHIP grant funds will support programs designed to address NHF's mission priorities, which include general health and healthcare, education, economic stability, and organizational capacity building.

CHIP grant investments will support the following efforts in these categories:

HEALTH AND HEALTHCARE

Hinton Rural Life Center, Hayesville - To support their work to repair and/or modify the homes of hospital patients with limited financial resources, thus ensuring these individuals return to a safe and healthy environment following their hospital stay.

Swain County Health Department, Bryson City - To meet the basic dental needs of Swain County residents who do not have dental insurance, thus reducing their risk for complications that could negatively impact their health.

Veteran Smiles Foundation, Maggie Valley - To provide support for eligible veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces in need of dental care.

ECONOMIC SECURITY

MANNA Food Bank, Asheville - To continue food distribution for individuals and families facing food insecurities in Macon County by identifying a permanent location for the MANNA Community Market and by exploring options to host a separate MANNA Community Market site in the Nantahala Community.

Rolling Start NC, Cullowhee - To provide safe and reliable transportation to 12 or more individuals and families living in poverty, thus improving their chances of getting and keeping employment, and enhancing their access to educational opportunities, community engagement, medical services, and quality-of-life activities.

United Christian Ministries, Sylva - To address food insecurity through the purchase of a cargo van to transport nutritional food items from producers/farmers to low-income consumers and food pantry locations in Jackson County.

EDUCATION

North Carolina Bartram Trail Society, Franklin - To provide Macon County High School students with a variety of STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) educational opportunities and to explore future environmental career paths via youth and volunteer trail maintenance experiences.

Southwestern Community College, Sylva - To employ a part-time instructor/job coach to assist with Project SEARCH, which provides instruction and educational assistance to disabled young adults living in Jackson, Macon, and Swain counties so that they may be better able to explore potential careers and eventually be placed in stable, long-term employment, allowing them to become self-sufficient adults.

ORGANIZATIONAL CAPACITY BUILDING

AWAKE Children's Advocacy Center, Sylva - To establish and launch a new nonprofit, Child Medical Collaborative, which will serve to address the lack of child medical providers in our region, specifically those who specialize in treating victims of abuse.

Mountain Projects, Sylva - To build the personnel capacity of their organization's home repairs and rehabilitation program, which works to ensure elderly and disadvantaged individuals in Jackson County are able to remain safely in their homes.

REACH of Macon County, Franklin - To employ a human trafficking specialist and a victim support advocate with a goal of developing a multi-disciplinary task force to strengthen victim response in our

Town of Highlands mid-year FY 2021-'22 Audit Snapshot

General Fund Summary

At the last Town Board meeting of 2021 which was held Dec. 16, Highlands got an unmodified (clean) opinion from auditors Martin Starnes.

A look at the accompanied graphs show a town that is not only in the black but with more revenues and less expenditures than the previous year.

The audit represents just half of the year, since the fiscal year is July 1, 2021 through June 30, 2022.

A final budget will be presented at the end of 2021-2022.

The only problems auditors find with Highlands is the fact that it doesn't have enough employees to segregate duties.

In other words, the same person is doing more than one thing -- something commonplace in the operation of small municipalities.

The other issue brought to light was controls over inventory particularly referring to small inventory like nuts and bolts and screws.

Public Service Administrator Lamar Nix said that's true and its something a computerized inventory system could manage and he would look into it.

According to Martin Starnes the General Fund is healthy showing a 5% increase over 2020 this time or $203,569.

The total Fund Balance -- money that is basically left over after expenses and operations increased by $141,524 over 2020.

The available Fund Balance is the money that isn't considered "non spendable" or statblized by State Statute.

So far, for FY 2021-'22 the available Fund Balance is $3,983,240 with is $141,524 more than last year.

Real Estate values have caused the Ad Valorem Taxes -- property taxes -- to increase, too. So far in 2021 Highlands saw a $2,934,410 increase over last year.

With Highlands booming all the way around, local option sales tax revenues also increased this year, $140,000 more than in 2020.

Martin Starnes said the town's enterprise funds are healthy with roughly $4 million coming in with a current net position of $35,340,371 million. Unrestricted money in that fund is $8,456,594 with a change in net position of $3,051,323 over 2020.

The electric fund increased $3.2 million and the sanitation fund increased $220,000. There was a decrease in the water/sewer fund of $430,000 whose capital improvements were funded by proceeds in the electric fund.

General Fund Expenditures increased over 2020 again due to capital expenditures in infrastructure.

Public Safety Expenditures decreased by $8,968 compared to 2020.

Culture and Recreation Expenditures increased by $204,680.

On Saturday, Jan. 15, meet in the back parking lot of the Rec park at 9 am. This is what we will be working on:

1.) Trail maintenance. Due to recent snow, we have some pruning maintenance on the trails. Volunteers needed with loppers and pruners. Please let Jim know if you would like to get a head start on this work.

2.) Kelsey Trail Loop work. Our goal is to have this trail ready for the 2022 season. Please help get this trail completed. Work will include: Benching, cribbing, building a ford and trail clean up.

3.) Greenway Equipment Trailer organizing. Lend your organizational skills to help get the trailer in working order. Bonus points if you find the key to the excavator!

Do You Ever Feel Blue?

Pastor Randy Lucas
Highlands United Methodist Church

Do you ever have a feeling deep down inside your gut, just a little bit of weariness,
your wheels stuck in a rut?

You may not know the origin, don't know from where it came,
but somehow it just found you,
and called you by your name.

Not that anything has happened,
to throw your world off course,
no need to over-medicate,
no need for a divorce.

It's just a matter of malaise, though nothing's really wrong,
but sometimes when it hits you,
it's hard to find your song.

Maybe it's the shorter days,
perhaps the longer nights,
maybe it's the quieter house,
or boxed up Christmas lights.

However and whenever,
without rhyme or reason,
the blues can come a callin'
during any time or season.

And if you're feeling blue today,
please know you're not alone,
just take a break, say a prayer,
and have an ice cream cone.

So hang in there beloved,
even when you're feeling blue,
and please always remember,
there's a grain of God in you!

Asheville jury convicts Franklin man of starting fire

Burns more than 80 acres of federal land and 20 acres of private land

U.S. Attorney Dena J. King announced today that a federal jury sitting in Asheville found Casey Lee Evans, 42, of Franklin, N.C., guilty of starting a fire that burned more than 70 acres of federal land.

According to filed court documents, evidence presented at trial and witness testimony, on April 3, 2020, law enforcement in Franklin received a call concerning a fire that was actively burning in the area of Cals Cove Road.

According to trial evidence, over the course of the investigation law enforcement determined that Evans willfully started the fire, which originated within the Nantahala National Forest. The fire burned for several days before it was successfully extinguished. In total, the fire burned approximately 70 acres of federal land and 20 more acres of private property.

Evans was convicted of willfully setting a fire on federal land, which carries a statutory maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine. Following the guilty verdict, Evans was remanded into federal custody. A sentencing date has not been set. In making today's announcement, U.S. Attorney King thanked the U.S. Forest Service, the North Carolina Forest Service, and the Otto Fire Department for their investigation of the case.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Asheville is in charge of the prosecution

but continued to offer opinions throughout the meeting.

According to the accepted document, STR uses depend on the type of accommodation – Lodging (less than 30 days), Temporary Guest Occupancy (less than 30 days), Whole House Short-term Rental (7-30 days), Tourist Home (owner stays on property), and Transient Dwelling (less than 7 days).

In the R1 district, a Tourist Home is allowed but only 2 bedrooms; Transient Dwelling is not allowed; and a Whole House STR is allowed but Limited to a 14-day minimum.

Regarding this issue, the board decided not to strike a provision in the proposed amendment about incidental Whole House ST Rentals in R1 which they had struck in December. It says: no more than two such rentals in any calendar year where the total annual rental period for both rentals does not exceed two weeks. So that would be one of the limitations in R1 for Whole House Rentals.

Issues arose concerning the R2 district regarding permitted uses versus limited use and Special Use Permits for Transient Dwellings in that district.

As it stands now, for R2, a Tourist Home is permitted as an accessory use; Transient Dwelling requires a SUP; Whole House STR is allowed but limited to a 14-day minimum.

Town Planner Michael Mathis said the town doesn't want or need to require Special Use Permits for any STR use because if the use meets all the required criteria, it goes with the land so there is nothing "special" about it.

"The board needs to either permit a use or limit a use and if limited then those limitations need to be outlined," he said later.

The board got into the weeds regarding this issue so finalizing the SUP versus Permitted Transient Dwelling use was tabled until the Jan. 24 meeting.

At one point the board discussed property owners having to get a permit each time they wanted to rent their home, but Mathis said that was not necessary either. Once issued a permit to be a STR – having met all the criteria – the property would be in the system so coming back to the town for "permission" wouldn't be necessary.

Every kind of STR is permitted in R3 and all the business districts in B1-B4.

Though Chairman Brad Armstrong said the topic wasn't their purview, like last time the board got off on the vested interest (grandfathered) issue.

Member Chris Wilkes said he had heard from both sides since the December meeting.

In November, Attorney Craig Justice informed the board that the amended ordinance concerning STRs would be in regards to future dealings and not current STRs. He said those currently using their homes in any residential district could continue and that the use follows the land not the owner.

If the house sells, as long as the new owner continues to rent it without lapsing 24 months, the use is grandfathered in.

This has caused an outcry about a neighbor's house being worth more than another if one is an STR and the other not.

"The biggest concern was going forward. The house next door would continue as an STR and that property value would go up while others would go down," said member Chris Wilkes. "I just think the Town Board should be made aware of the concern among some owners of homes in the R1 district."

He wondered if a limit of some kind could be put on the "grandfathered" aspect. "Maybe the 'vesting' period should be considered and should be the same for all in all the districts," he said.

Again, Armstrong and others said "vesting" was a legal issue and has nothing to do with the Planning Board.

"We have no legal authority to discuss it," said member Nick McCall.

To get an STR permit, the limits per district must be adhered to; the property must meet the bedroom/bath ratio for septic; two people per bedroom plus two; no more than 12 people regardless of the number of bedrooms if more than five; one off-street parking space is required per bedroom; renter must sign a document acknowledging rules and regulations; there must be a posted 24/7 contact person; and the property must be inspected by the fire inspector.

The board also discussed the suspension of rights to rent for repeat offenders – those who do nothing about trash, noise or other violations -- so the ordinance would have some teeth in it.

Though Armstrong said again the board was there to give directional advice and there were others better suited to deal with that, Willard proposed after three violations in a 12-month period, the owner would not be allowed to rent for six months and the board agreed.

The board agreed to leave the current ordinance as it is concerning non-related members living in a house noting that businesses use properties to house employees. It stands now at five.

At the regular open Jan. 24 meeting, final touches will be put on the ordinance before sending it to the Town Board.

ham Shirley, Nathaniel Poovey and Dawn Layton. "Once we embark on that slippery slope, there would be no corner of legislative or executive power that we could not reach.

The 258-page decision comes in response to three law suits filed challenging the new maps, which were drawn and approved the North Carolina's Republican majority in the General Assembly.

"Declaring as unconstitutional, an act of the branch of government that represents the people is a task that is not to be taken lightly. There is a strong presumption that enactments of the General Assembly are constitutional," the ruling stated.

Redistricting tied up courts for nearly a decade after the state's maps were last redrawn — something that is likely to occur again. Challengers are expected to appeal the court's Tuesday decision immediately to the state Court of Appeals or directly to the state Supreme Court, which in December halted candidate filing and delayed the primary election from March to May to allow for these suits to be tried and appealed.

As part of Tuesday's ruling, the judges set a schedule to reopen candidate filing for all races across North Carolina, however they also issued a separate stay of the schedule to allow the case to be appealed. Candidate filing will now resume on Feb. 24, per the ruling.

Republicans currently hold eight of the state's 13 congressional seats, so the state's GOP remap could help the party take back the U.S. House. North Carolina gained a House seat for the next decade based on population growth in the 2020 census.

"State Board of Elections staff will immediately begin preparing for the continuation of the candidate filing period, including securing a location to ensure the health and safety of staff and candidates," said Karen Brinson Bell, State Board executive director, in a press release. "We will provide all details to the public as soon as possible at NCSBE.gov and through an announcement distributed to the media."

ABOUT NANTAHALA HEALTH FOUNDATION

tors focused on strategic planning and regional information gathering designed to achieve their mission of better health and well-being outcomes for all in their service area of Cherokee, Clay, Graham, Jackson, Macon and Swain counties and the Qualla Boundary. After hosting an extensive series of listening sessions designed to identify issues challenging Western North Carolina, they defined their priorities and set about developing programs, including a grant-making initiative, to support their mission.

Working as a catalyst for innovation and collaboration, Nantahala Health Foundation seeks to partner with nonprofit organizations and governmental agencies to achieve better health and wellness outcomes for all. By working to address the upstream, root causes of health inequities and by removing barriers to positive social determinants of health and life-style choices, NHF's success is seen best in partnerships with regional change-makers. Since its launch, NHF has awarded nearly $3.13 million in support to some 148 programs throughout the region.
